<h2>Security status</h2>
High Degree of Caution.
<h2>Latest Travel Alert</h2>
Citizens should exercise caution in any decisions about international travel, taking account of their overall health, their vaccine status, and the risk of testing positive for COVID-19 while abroad. Anyone considering travelling abroad should be aware that restrictions are subject to change at short notice, and additional restrictions may be imposed by the country of your destination, including during your visit.
<h2> Travel to Bulgaria</h2>
Bulgaria has lifted all COVID-19 related travel restrictions for entering the country. Passengers, regardless of where they began their journey, are not required to show any COVID-19 related documents (i.e. COVID-19 Vaccination Certificates, Recovery Certificates, or PCR/ Antigen test results) on arrival.
Anyone considering travel to Bulgaria should check the latest information from the local authorities here. Please check this information regularly, as it is subject to frequent change. Please note, airlines may have still their own COVID-19 policies and restrictions in place. Passengers should consult directly with their airlines for further information.
For more information please contact the Bulgarian Embassy in Dublin: https://www.mfa.bg/embassies/ireland

<h1 class="content-heading ">Safety and security</h1>
Terrorism
Although the threat from terrorism in Bulgaria is low, there is still a global risk of indiscriminate terrorist attacks, which could be against civilian targets, including places frequented by tourists and expatriates.
Protests
We strongly advise you to avoid protests and not to take photographs. Keep up-to-date with local media reports and follow the advice of the local authorities.
Crime
Bulgaria generally has a low level of crime. However, pickpocketing and petty crime is common in tourist areas, particularly around the Black Sea coastal resorts, and transport hubs, such as airports and bus terminals.
Take care with personal belongings, especially on public transport, and around tourist attractions, markets and shopping malls. Do not walk around with your passport or wallet in the back pocket of your jeans. Do not keep your valuables in a bag/pouch which someone else can open without your noticing. Keep valuables stored in a secure location, such as a hotel safe. Be alert to possible scams. If you are approached in a busy area, this could be an attempt to distract you while you are robbed.
If you wish to report a crime, you can contact the local police on 112.
Taxis

Taxis in Bulgaria are generally a reliable and cost effective way to get around. However, there are some taxi drivers who overcharge, particularly at airports, train and bus stations and from outside hotels. To avoid this, use a taxi recommended by your accommodation provider or tour operator. Always check that rates per kilometre and other charges are clearly displayed on a sticker on the car window and that the taxi meter is working.
At Sofia airport you should use an authorised taxi, either by booking at the taxi desk in the arrivals hall or going to the official rank just outside the end of the terminal (to the right as you come from the arrival gate in Terminal 2). Do not take a taxi with anyone who approaches you at the terminal offering a taxi service. Alternatively, it is possible to take the Metro directly from Terminal 2 to the city centre.
 If you suspect that you have been overcharged by a taxi driver, you can contact the traffic police (KAT) through the 112 emergency number. In Sunny Beach, you can bring the receipt and details of the driver’s registration to the Sunny Beach JSC resort management company.
Driving
If you’re planning to drive in Bulgaria, you should be extremely careful. Road conditions can be dangerous, with roads (and pavements) often poorly maintained, poorly lit and full of potholes. You should avoid driving at night time, especially outside major cities.
Bulgarian driving tends to be aggressive and we recommend that you avoid confrontations with aggressive drivers. There can be a large number of trucks and lorries on the major roadways towards Turkey and Greece. It is not unusual to encounter slow-moving cars and animal-drawn vehicles on the roads. Equally, high-speed driving is common and drivers should remain alert.
Winter driving in Bulgaria can be difficult and you should make sure you’re adequately prepared. Snow chains must be carried from 1 November until 1 March and used when the relevant sign is displayed. Winter tyres are compulsory for vehicles registered in Bulgaria during wintry road conditions.
Legally, you must drive with running lights or dipped beam headlights throughout the year, even during the daytime. It’s compulsory to carry the following equipment in your vehicle: fire extinguisher (not required for 2-wheeled vehicles), a first-aid kit and a warning triangle (not required for 2-wheeled vehicles). A reflective jacket must be used by anyone who steps on to the road in a breakdown or emergency.
If you want to drive:

Bring your full Irish driving license and make sure you have adequate and appropriate insurance.
If you’re bringing your own car, make sure you have all original registration and ownership documents.
To travel on the roads between cities in Bulgaria, cars must display a ‘vignette’ or road tax sticker. You can buy these in large filling stations, post offices, DZI bank offices and at the border points and ports.
Be aware of Bulgaria’s traffic laws, such as speed limits. These are: 50km/h in the cities and towns, 90km/h out of town, and 130 km/h on the highways. For motorcycles, speed limits are 50 km/h in the cities and towns, 80 km/h out of town, and 100 km/h on the highways.

Police checkpoints are common, particularly as you leave a town, and on-the-spot fines can be charged for minor violations. There are, however, reports of police officers attempting extortion through fines.
Vehicle hire

If you’re hiring a vehicle in Bulgaria, we advise you not to hand over your passport as a form of security. If you’re allowing your passport to be photocopied, keep it in your sight at all times.
If you are bringing a hired car into Bulgaria, make sure to have the original contract document. The document should state that the car can be brought into Bulgaria.
Check that you have adequate insurance and read the small print of the vehicle hire contract (particularly any waiver that will come into effect if the vehicle is damaged).

<h1 class="content-heading ">Local laws and customs</h1>
Remember, the local laws apply to you as a visitor and it is your responsibility to follow them. Be sensitive to local customs, traditions and practices as your behaviour may be seen as improper, hostile or even illegal
Illegal drugs
Illegal drug use carries stiff penalties, including fines and long prison terms.
Language
The Bulgarian language is based on the Cyrillic alphabet, and outside major cities information signs may not to be translated into English.
Buying property
Bulgaria became a popular location for property investment in recent years. If you’re considering investing in property in Bulgaria, we strongly recommend that you get an independent, English-speaking property lawyer to give you advice before making a purchase.

Getting legal redress in Bulgaria can take some time, if things go wrong. We can’t get involved in legal proceedings between two private parties, nor can we take get involved in steps to recover any investments in individual property deals.
Many foreign-owned properties in Bulgaria are left unoccupied for periods of time. The Bulgarian police recommend that owners put security arrangements in place during this time.
Getting married
To get married in Bulgaria at least one of the couple must be either a Bulgarian citizen or have residency in Bulgaria. If you meet these criteria, you will also need a Certificat de Coutume, otherwise known as a Certificate of Freedom to Marry.
If you are an Irish citizen, you should apply for this either through the Embassy of Ireland covering your country of residence (i.e. the Embassy in Sofia if you live in Buglaria) if you live abroad, or through the Consular Division of the Department of Foreign Affairs in Dublin if you live in Ireland. A certificate obtained in Dublin will have to also be apostilled by the Department of Foreign Affairs in order to meet Bulgarian requirements. Find out more information about authentication of documents here. In both cases you will have to present the certificate to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Sofia to be stamped

COVID-19
Bulgaria has lifted its COVID epidemic status. Currently there are no requirements for public mask-wearing or social distancing. Please note, such requirements may be re-introduced if the authorities deem it necessary. There are no national lockdown or travelling restrictions in place.

We would advise:

Irish citizens living in Bulgaria to regularly review and follow the guidance of the health authorities closely.

Irish citizens visiting Bulgaria to regularly review the travel advice provided by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and to adhere to the guidance set out by the local authorities as closely as possible.

Travel Insurance
Comprehensive travel insurance can save you and your family a lot of money if something goes wrong during your holiday. Even relatively minor incidents or illnesses can result in bills of several hundred euro at private health centres in Bulgaria. For more serious matters, bills can quickly run into thousands of euro. A medical evacuation or repatriation of remains to Ireland can cost thousands more.
If you buy an appropriate travel insurance policy before you leave, these costs will be covered provided you haven’t broken the terms and conditions. You should know that most insurance policies will not cover drink- or drug-related incidents. Insurance also cannot be taken out after an incident or treatment has occurred, and in most cases must be bought before you leave home.
Not all policies are the same, and the cheapest one might be cheap for a reason. Make sure your policy covers all the activities you plan to do on your trip. Insurance Ireland recommend that you purchase a policy that provides a minimum medical cover of €1 million.
The Embassy cannot pay for emergency medical repatriation, repatriation of remains, or for expenses as a result of a personal emergency while you are abroad.
Emergency expenses
As well as all medical care abroad, your travel insurance policy should cover:

your entire trip, from departure to return - consider an annual multi-trip policy if you’re making more than one trip in the year;
 emergency treatment including evacuation by air ambulance, any costs associated with an unexpected longer stay due to medical issues, and repatriation of remains;
24-hour emergency service and assistance;
any extra activities you intend to do that are excluded from standard policies (e.g. water sport activities such as jet-skiing or other extreme sports);
 personal liability cover (in case you’re sued for causing injury or damaging property);
lost and stolen possessions;
cancellation and curtailment.

European Health Insurance Card
We advise you to get a European Health Insurance Card (EHIC) before you travel to Bulgaria. This card replaces the E111 form and entitles you to emergency medical treatment in public healthcare facilities on the same terms as Bulgarian nationals. The EHIC is not a substitute for travel insurance and doesn’t cover most treatment in private clinics (where the majority of tourists have treatment), medical repatriation, ongoing medical treatment or treatment of a non-urgent nature. Always check with the hospital/clinic administrator beforehand whether your EHIC will be accepted. You can apply for an EHIC on the HSE’s website.

Medical facilities
Medical staff in Bulgaria are generally well-trained but hospitals and clinics are sometimes poorly resourced. If you’re staying in resorts, be careful to check if the medical facility is public or private and ensure that you’re covered by insurance or your EHIC, or can afford the treatment if you choose a private facility.
There have been recent reports that illegal ambulances are operating in the Bansko ski resort, charging tourists hefty fees for transfers to the local hospital. If you come across any incidents such as these, you should report them to the local police by calling the standard emergency number, 112.
Vaccinations
Check with your doctor a minimum of eight weeks in advance of travelling to see if you need any vaccinations for Bulgaria.

Entry requirements (visa/passport)
Irish citizens don’t need a visa to enter Bulgaria. However, children need an individual passport to enter the country. If you’re staying longer than 90 days you should register with the local police and get a temporary resident’s card.

Currency
The Bulgarian Lev is the currency used, and cash is still the most widely accepted form of payment. Credit cards are becoming more widespread but can’t be relied on to work everywhere and are not accepted in some outlets. ATMs are also widely available, and Irish cards are accepted by most of those affiliated with the larger banks.
Euro can be changed into Lev in most banks and in street exchange bureaus for normal rates. However, take care to examine the rates offered and only use licensed bureaus. We recommend that you use currency exchange bureaus in banks if at all possible. Check the exchange rate on your receipt before signing for the transaction as exchange rates may differ from those displayed, depending on the amount of commission being charged.
Be cautious if you’re approached on the street by anyone offering to exchange money for you as these people tend to be con artists intent on scamming tourists. You should take care when using ATMs as you would do in Ireland as instances of card skimming have been known to happen.
The Bulgarian police request that anyone who experiences problems with exchange bureaus, ATM fraud or credit card fraud report it to the nearest police station as soon as possible. Delays in reporting can hamper investigations.
Public transport
Public transport throughout Bulgaria is generally good, although the standard of buses and trams in the cities is varied. You can buy tickets in bulk from ticket kiosks or for single journeys on the tram or bus. Sofia has a metro system that runs east to west through the city centre and work is ongoing to extend the system.
Travelling by bus or air within the country is cheap and reliable. There are internal flights between Sofia, Plovdiv, Burgas and Varna which are quite accessible. The bus network is quite extensive.
Train travel is less popular and the quality of the service is not as comfortable. Car hire is also possible, with international companies such as Avis and Hertz operating in Bulgaria as well as other local companies.

<h2>
Entry refusal
</h2>

In very rare cases, an EU country can refuse entry to you or your family members for reasons of " public policy, public security or public health".

This means the authorities must prove you or your family members pose a " genuine, present and sufficiently serious threat".

You are entitled to receive this decision in writing, stating all the grounds, and specifying how you can appeal and by when.

You are waiting for results of a COVID-19 test.

If your test comes back positive while you are at your destination, you will need to isolate and postpone your return until it’s safe for you to travel. Your travel companions may need to quarantine.

You had close contact with a person with COVID-19 and are recommended to quarantine.

Do not travel until a full 5 days after your last close contact with the person with COVID-19. It is best to avoid travel for a full 10 days after your last exposure.
If you must travel during days 6 through 10 after your last exposure:

Get tested at least 5 days after your last close contact. Make sure your test result is negative and you remain without symptoms before traveling. If you don’t get tested, avoid travel until a full 10 days after your last close contact with a person with COVID-19.
Properly wear a well-fitting mask when you are around others for the entire duration of travel during days 6 through 10. If you are unable to wear a mask, you should not travel during the days 6 through 10.

If you had close contact with a person with COVID-19 but are NOT recommended to quarantine...

Get tested at least 5 days after your last close contact. Make sure your test result is negative and you remain without symptoms before traveling.

If you had confirmed COVID-19 within the past 90 days, you do NOT need to get tested, but you should still follow all other recommendations (including getting tested if you develop COVID-19 symptoms).

If you travel during the 10 days after your last exposure, properly wear a well-fitting mask when you are around others for the entire duration of travel during the 10 days. If you are unable to wear a mask, you should not travel during the 10 days.

<h4>Required</h4>
<h5>Vaccination – Non-U.S. Citizen, Non-U.S. Immigrant</h5>
If you are a non-U.S. citizen who is a nonimmigrant (not a U.S. citizen, U.S. national, lawful permanent resident, or traveling to the United States on an immigrant visa), you will need to show proof of being fully vaccinated against COVID-19 before you travel by air to the United States from a foreign country. Learn more about this requirement.
<h5>Providing Contact Information</h5>
All air passengers to the United States are also required to provide contact information to airlines before boarding flights to the United States.

<meta property="og:title" content="How the War Could Transform Ukrainian Politics">
<meta property="og:description" content="True to the opening line of its national anthem, “Ukraine has not yet perished.” Nearly three months after Russia invaded Ukraine, the offensive has stalled. Fears voiced in February that Ukraine may cease to exist as an independent state have receded. Ukrainian democracy will survive. Yet, while the world’s focus has understandably centered on the course of the war, less attention has been paid to the impact the of the war on Ukrainian politics and democratic development. These shifts, outlined in four sections below, have the power to fundamentally change the country and must be critically considered by policymakers planning for Ukraine’s recovery and reconstruction. Erosion of Pro-Russian Sentiment For its nearly three decades of independence, Ukraine has struggled to develop a unifying idea to consolidate national identity, bridge the ethnic, religious, and linguistic divisions of its heterogenous society, and guide its geopolitical course. Although Russia’s annexation of Crimea and its undeclared proxy war in the Donetsk and Luhansk regions awakened a sense of patriotism and purpose among many Ukrainians in 2014, a substantial portion of the population continued to hope for the normalization of relations with Moscow. Proponents of this view were concentrated in the southeastern regions of the country, where local economies and supply chains were deeply integrated with Russia as a legacy of Soviet rule, and where Russia enjoyed significant social and cultural influence as a result of more than a century of immigration. However, since the start of the “special military operation” in February, hopes of a peaceful coexistence with Russia have evaporated. As one analyst of Ukrainian identity politics summarized, “the vast majority of Ukrainians throughout the country, even in the historically more Russia-friendly east, now see Russia as an adversary.” This sentiment is borne out in recent social surveys, which found that only 8 percent of respondents had positive inclinations toward Russian citizens, down from 47 percent in 2018. Ukrainians are well aware of the high degree of support within Russia for invasion and increasingly believe that ordinary Russians bear responsibility for war. Atrocities committed against Ukrainian civilians, such as the massacre in Bucha or the indiscriminate destruction of Mariupol, only serve to harden Ukrainians’ outlook toward their neighbor. The war has provoked a reconsideration of the countries’ shared history, with more Ukrainians acknowledging Russia’s role in Ukraine as that of a colonial power rather than a fraternal nation. The ideological divide between Ukrainians and Russians, whom Russian president Vladimir Putin infamously characterized as “one people,” has deepened, and citizens of Russia and Ukraine have fundamentally incompatible views of their past, present, and future. In this context, the pro-Russian political orientation has become outdated and toxic, and the regional divide that has loomed over Ukrainian politics for decades is fading. In an April 2022 survey by the International Republican Institute, 80 percent of respondents nationwide supported Ukraine’s entry into the European Union, whereas only 2 percent supported joining a regional customs union with Russia, Belarus, and Kazakhstan. In eastern Ukraine, more than two-thirds of respondents were proponents of EU accession, which underscores the national consensus for a political-economic course toward the West. Hot-button cultural issues that once undergirded opposition campaigns in eastern Ukraine, such as language policy and the celebration of divisive historical figures after the Revolution of Dignity, have lost their resonance as Ukraine fights for its future. Banning of Russia-Linked Political Parties Meanwhile, the government has taken steps to protect itself from Russian manipulation by placing restrictions on political movements that are tied to Moscow or support its position on the war. At the outset of the conflict, the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine suspended the work of several political structures linked to Russia, while Ukraine’s parliament passed a similar measure that was signed by President Zelensky on May 14 to ban political parties that justify or deny Russia’s armed aggression against Ukraine. The Opposition Platform–For Life (OPFL) party, which had the second-highest share (13 percent) of votes cast in Ukraine 2019 parliamentary election and was a leading voice against Euro-Atlantic integration, deserves particular attention. Politicians associated with the party have been placed on Western sanctions lists for their purported links to Russian intelligence agencies. The reputation of the party has also been discredited by the fact that most of its representatives in parliament had fled Ukraine days before the invasion, suggesting those party members may have been tipped off about the attack, and also the willingness of several local and regional party members to collaborate with Russian occupation forces in southern and eastern Ukraine. Further illustrating the extent of OPFL’s alienation are the cases of prominent former member of parliament Illia Kyva, who defected to Russia and has publicly called on Putin to use weapons of mass destruction against Ukraine, and party cofounder Viktor Medvedchuk, who was offered to Russia as part of an abortive prisoner exchange after being captured by Ukrainian security services following his escape from house arrest on treason charges. While a rump of OPFL has rebranded as a parliamentary group emphasizing respect for human life, peace, and the independence of Ukraine in an attempt to retain their seats in the legislature, it is unlikely to gain traction with a peace platform, given that the overwhelming majority of Ukrainians believe they will prevail in the war against Russia and precious few are willing to make concessions to end hostilities. While the motivation to ban Russia-linked political parties is understandable as a defense against fifth columnists, it raises concerns about due process and rule of law and could create difficulties for Ukraine down the road. Some legal experts claim that the ban violates Ukraine’s constitution and may be challenged in European courts on the grounds of violating fundamental political freedoms or reversed by Ukraine’s own constitutional court, which has issued controversial decisions in favor of OPFL in the past. Supporters of the law have noted that the ban is a stopgap measure and may require amendments to comply with democratic standards. Yet, if it stands, the ban could be the first step in rooting out other forms of Russian malign influence and soft power in Ukraine through legislation and executive action and would be the basis for future discussions on lustration. Oligarchs Extended a Political Lifeline In 2014, a weakened Kyiv government turned to oligarchs for support. Banking magnate Ihor Kolomoyskyi, for instance, funded volunteer units fighting against Russian proxies in eastern Ukraine. Yet, these concessions came at the price of entrenching self-interested actors in influential positions and eroding the state’s monopoly on violence. Within a few years of the Revolution of Dignity, the malign influence of oligarchs in Ukraine had become so problematic that the U.S. Helsinki Commission concluded that oligarchs “have captured the Ukrainian state, crowding out non-corrupt political parties and competing with one another to steal Ukraine's wealth.” Concerns about grand corruption were a persistent block on Ukraine’s aspirations to join the European Union and NATO. A redux of this dynamic may be shaping up as Ukraine prepares for a long standoff with Russia. Although President Zelensky launched a “de-oligarchization” campaign only one year ago to insulate political processes and the media from undue influence by business elites, Ukraine’s richest individuals are almost uniformly backing the government in the war against Russia. This suggests they understand not only that a Russian takeover would be detrimental to their business interests, but also that the crisis provides an opportunity to improve their standing. So far, oligarchs have provided substantial donations to help Ukraine meet defense and humanitarian needs and have signaled their willingness to play a role in the country's eventual recovery. For example, steel magnate Rinat Akhmetov, whose company Metinvest owns two steel plants in Mariupol, has pledged to rebuild the city once the Russian occupation is over. These efforts are hardly selfless; they have been accompanied by uncritical coverage in local and Western press that allow the oligarchs to reframe themselves as patriotic defenders of their country. If Ukraine is not careful, it risks trading away its future to meet its needs in the present, ignoring some of the most vital lessons learned from 2014. A recent bill introduced in the Verkhovna Rada, Ukraine's parliament, would allow persons facing corruption charges to be exempted from criminal liability if the damage is fully compensated during the period of martial law. Since prosecutors have struggled to establish the full extent of funds stolen in some of biggest corruption cases (e.g., Kolomoyskyi's alleged theft of $5.5 billion from PrivatBank), the bill would allow corrupt actors, including some of Ukraine's most prominent oligarchs, to pay pennies on the dollar to escape accountability for crimes committed before the war. As the past eight years have shown, oligarchs have the capacity and incentive to block reforms intended to root out corruption and facilitate Ukraine's transition to a full-fledged market economy. If they exploit the conflict to deepen their hold over Ukraine's politics and economy, there is little reason to doubt they would once again undermine Ukraine's path to Euro-Atlantic integration to protect their personal wealth and influence. Veterans' Movement, Civil Society Energized All signs point to a postwar atmosphere in which one's activities during the invasion play a major role in determining one's bona fides as a candidate for public office. With social trust in the military and territorial defense units at an all-time high, military leaders and servicemembers are in a strong position to enter the political arena. Established political parties and oligarchs may try to co-opt prominent defenders of Ukraine to suit their causes, but those who proved themselves during the war and stick to their principles in future elections will have substantial political capital and a chance of unseating members of the old guard. In this context, Ukraine's veteran movement is likely to become a more overt and organized political force in the coming years. While veteran organizations had largely refrained from aligning with established political parties since 2014, they took up a narrow set of causes in recent years that sometimes posed a direct challenge to the Zelensky administration. In the post-invasion environment, veteran organizations could play a key role in identifying candidates for office and mobilizing grassroots support. At minimum, the rapid, nationwide influx of volunteers joining the armed forces and territorial defense units will make veterans a critical voting bloc in future elections and will push their issues into the mainstream. The broader membership base of the veteran community should create a more diffuse group identity, which could help to safeguard it against being co-opted by far-right movements—an emerging trend prior to the invasion. Another countervailing influence on the regressive role of oligarchs and corrupt actors will be Ukraine's civil society, which has mobilized tremendous resources to support Ukraine's defense and to address humanitarian needs. Early polling data reveal that nearly one-third of all Ukrainians have volunteered to help fellow citizens or aid the defense effort. Like the veteran community, this group of citizens will have considerable influence in Ukrainian politics and will help to shape the agenda from inside and outside of government, much as they did after the Revolution of Dignity. Civil society is certain to play a role in monitoring expenditures of international funds earmarked for Ukraine's economic recovery. What Do These Changes Mean for Ukraine and Its Western Supporters? Domestic politics in Ukraine are bound to transform as a result of the war, and there are many challenges ahead. Chief among them, Ukrainian society will have to contend with the difficult question of how to reconcile the role that certain political figures played in the years before the invasion with the roles they have assumed in the months since. This applies not only to previously pro-Russian politicians and regional strongmen, but also Ukraine's oligarchs. It will also have to ensure that the patriotic fervor that has enabled Ukraine to resist the Russian invasion does not metastasize into toxic intolerance or trigger illiberal shortcuts that could damage the country in the long run. Yet, for the first time since 2015–16, when reforms introduced after the Revolution of Dignity began to lose steam, an opportunity has emerged for Ukraine to fulfill its potential as a democratic state with strong institutions and an economy that is worthy of foreign investment. As the Russian offensive falters, Ukraine's Western partners are starting to think about how to help the country recover and rebuild. This process creates an opportunity to support the positive transformations taking place within Ukraine and to safeguard against backsliding. A move by the European Union to forge closer ties with Ukraine—which would require a considerable degree of creativity and flexibility in Brussels, as there are serious obstacles to even granting candidate status—would be a long-term boon for reformers and would fortify elected officials to make tough decisions for the public good. In the interim, states and institutions providing financial assistance for Ukraine's reconstruction should help promote strong anti-corruption mechanisms to attract additional investments and reinforce the rule of law. Policymakers in the West should monitor for signs that oligarchs and corrupt officials are positioning themselves to recapture state institutions and funds, speak with one voice about the impermissibility of returning to certain "old habits," and help develop the capacity of responsible actors to secure the bright future that Ukraine deserves. There is a tremendous opportunity for Ukraine to strengthen its democracy following the war. It must be seized. How the War Could Transform Ukrainian Politics

True to the opening line of its national anthem, “Ukraine has not yet perished.” Nearly three months after Russia invaded Ukraine, the offensive has stalled. Fears voiced in February that Ukraine may cease to exist as an independent state have receded. Ukrainian democracy will survive. Yet, while the world’s focus has understandably centered on the course of the war, less attention has been paid to the impact the of the war on Ukrainian politics and democratic development. These shifts, outlined in four sections below, have the power to fundamentally change the country and must be critically considered by policymakers planning for Ukraine’s recovery and reconstruction.

Erosion of Pro-Russian Sentiment

For its nearly three decades of independence, Ukraine has struggled to develop a unifying idea to consolidate national identity, bridge the ethnic, religious, and linguistic divisions of its heterogenous society, and guide its geopolitical course. Although Russia’s annexation of Crimea and its undeclared proxy war in the Donetsk and Luhansk regions awakened a sense of patriotism and purpose among many Ukrainians in 2014, a substantial portion of the population continued to hope for the normalization of relations with Moscow. Proponents of this view were  concentrated in the southeastern regions of the country,  where local economies and supply chains were deeply integrated with Russia as a legacy of Soviet rule, and where Russia enjoyed significant social and cultural influence as a result of more than a century of immigration.

However, since the start of the “special military operation” in February, hopes of a peaceful coexistence with Russia have evaporated. As one analyst of Ukrainian identity politics summarized, “the vast majority of Ukrainians throughout the country, even in the historically more Russia-friendly east, now see Russia as an adversary.” This sentiment is borne out in recent social surveys, which found that only 8 percent of respondents had  positive inclinations toward Russian citizens, down from 47 percent in 2018. Ukrainians are well aware of the high degree of support within Russia for invasion and increasingly believe that ordinary Russians bear responsibility for war. Atrocities committed against Ukrainian civilians, such as the  massacre in Bucha or the indiscriminate destruction of Mariupol, only serve to harden Ukrainians’ outlook toward their neighbor.

The war has provoked a reconsideration of the countries’ shared history, with more Ukrainians acknowledging Russia’s role in Ukraine as that of a colonial power rather than a fraternal nation. The ideological divide between Ukrainians and Russians, whom Russian president Vladimir Putin infamously characterized as “one people,” has deepened, and citizens of Russia and Ukraine have  fundamentally incompatible views of their past, present, and future.

In this context, the pro-Russian political orientation has become outdated and toxic, and the regional divide that has loomed over Ukrainian politics for decades is fading. In an April 2022 survey by the International Republican Institute, 80 percent of respondents nationwide supported Ukraine’s entry into the European Union, whereas only 2 percent supported joining a regional customs union with Russia, Belarus, and Kazakhstan. In eastern Ukraine, more than two-thirds of respondents were proponents of EU accession, which underscores the national consensus for a political-economic course toward the West. Hot-button cultural issues that once  undergirded opposition campaigns in eastern Ukraine, such as language policy and the celebration of divisive historical figures after the Revolution of Dignity, have lost their resonance as Ukraine fights for its future.

<h3>Banning of Russia-Linked Political Parties </h3>

Meanwhile, the government has taken steps to protect itself from Russian manipulation by placing restrictions on political movements that are tied to Moscow or support its position on the war. At the outset of the conflict, the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine suspended the work of several political structures linked to Russia, while Ukraine’s parliament passed a similar measure that was signed by President Zelensky on May 14 to ban political parties that justify or deny Russia’s armed aggression against Ukraine.

The Opposition Platform–For Life (OPFL) party, which had the second-highest share (13 percent) of votes cast in Ukraine 2019 parliamentary election and was a leading voice against Euro-Atlantic integration, deserves particular attention. Politicians associated with the party have been placed on Western sanctions lists for their purported links to Russian intelligence agencies. The reputation of the party has also been discredited by the fact that most of its representatives in parliament had fled Ukraine days before the invasion, suggesting those party members may have been tipped off about the attack, and also the willingness of several local and regional party members to collaborate with Russian occupation forces in southern and eastern Ukraine. Further illustrating the extent of OPFL’s alienation are the cases of prominent former member of parliament Illia Kyva, who defected to Russia and has publicly called on Putin to use weapons of mass destruction against Ukraine, and party cofounder Viktor Medvedchuk, who was offered to Russia as part of an abortive prisoner exchange after being captured by Ukrainian security services following his escape from house arrest on treason charges. While a rump of OPFL has rebranded as a parliamentary group emphasizing respect for human life, peace, and the independence of Ukraine in an attempt to retain their seats in the legislature, it is unlikely to gain traction with a peace platform, given that the overwhelming majority of Ukrainians believe they will prevail in the war against Russia and precious few are willing to make concessions to end hostilities.

While the motivation to ban Russia-linked political parties is understandable as a defense against fifth columnists, it raises concerns about due process and rule of law and could create difficulties for Ukraine down the road. Some legal experts claim that the ban violates Ukraine’s constitution and may be challenged in European courts on the grounds of violating fundamental political freedoms or reversed by Ukraine’s own constitutional court, which has issued controversial decisions in favor of OPFL in the past. Supporters of the law have noted that the ban is a stopgap measure and may require amendments to comply with democratic standards. Yet, if it stands, the ban could be the first step in rooting out other forms of Russian malign influence and soft power in Ukraine through legislation and executive action and would be the basis for future discussions on lustration.

<h3>Oligarchs Extended a Political Lifeline</h3>

In 2014, a weakened Kyiv government turned to oligarchs for support. Banking magnate Ihor Kolomoyskyi, for instance, funded volunteer units fighting against Russian proxies in eastern Ukraine. Yet, these concessions came at the price of entrenching self-interested actors in influential positions and eroding the state’s monopoly on violence. Within a few years of the Revolution of Dignity, the malign influence of oligarchs in Ukraine had become so problematic that the U.S. Helsinki Commission concluded that oligarchs “have captured the Ukrainian state, crowding out non-corrupt political parties and competing with one another to steal Ukraine's wealth.” Concerns about grand corruption were a persistent block on Ukraine’s aspirations to join the European Union and NATO.

A redux of this dynamic may be shaping up as Ukraine prepares for a long standoff with Russia. Although President Zelensky launched a “de-oligarchization” campaign only one year ago to insulate political processes and the media from undue influence by business elites, Ukraine’s richest individuals are almost uniformly backing the government in the war against Russia. This suggests they understand not only that a Russian takeover would be detrimental to their business interests, but also that the crisis provides an opportunity to improve their standing. So far, oligarchs have provided substantial donations to help Ukraine meet defense and humanitarian needs and have signaled their willingness to play a role in the country’s eventual recovery. For example, steel magnate Rinat Akhmetov, whose company Metinvest owns two steel plants in Mariupol, has pledged to rebuild the city once the Russian occupation is over. These efforts are hardly selfless; they have been accompanied by uncritical coverage in local and Western press that allow the oligarchs to reframe themselves as patriotic defenders of their country.

If Ukraine is not careful, it risks trading away its future to meet its needs in the present, ignoring some of the most vital lessons learned from 2014. A recent bill introduced in the Verkhovna Rada, Ukraine’s parliament, would allow persons facing corruption charges to be exempted from criminal liability if the damage is fully compensated during the period of martial law. Since prosecutors have struggled to establish the full extent of funds stolen in some of biggest corruption cases (e.g., Kolomoyskyi’s alleged theft of $5.5 billion from PrivatBank), the bill would allow corrupt actors, including some of Ukraine’s most prominent oligarchs, to pay pennies on the dollar to escape accountability for crimes committed before the war. As the past eight years have shown, oligarchs have the capacity and incentive to block reforms intended to root out corruption and facilitate Ukraine’s transition to a full-fledged market economy. If they exploit the conflict to deepen their hold over Ukraine’s politics and economy, there is little reason to doubt they would once again undermine Ukraine’s path to Euro-Atlantic integration to protect their personal wealth and influence.

<h3>Veterans’ Movement, Civil Society Energized</h3>

All signs point to a postwar atmosphere in which one’s activities during the invasion play a major role in determining one’s bona fides as a candidate for public office. With social trust in the military and territorial defense units at an all-time high, military leaders and servicemembers are in a strong position to enter the political arena. Established political parties and oligarchs may try to co-opt prominent defenders of Ukraine to suit their causes, but those who proved themselves during the war and stick to their principles in future elections will have substantial political capital and a chance of unseating members of the old guard.

In this context, Ukraine’s veteran movement is likely to become a more overt and organized political force in the coming years. While veteran organizations had largely refrained from aligning with established political parties since 2014, they took up a narrow set of causes in recent years that sometimes posed a direct challenge to the Zelensky administration. In the post-invasion environment, veteran organizations could play a key role in identifying candidates for office and mobilizing grassroots support. At minimum, the rapid, nationwide influx of volunteers joining the armed forces and territorial defense units will make veterans a critical voting bloc in future elections and will push their issues into the mainstream. The broader membership base of the veteran community should create a more diffuse group identity, which could help to safeguard it against being co-opted by far-right movements—an emerging trend prior to the invasion.

Another countervailing influence on the regressive role of oligarchs and corrupt actors will be Ukraine’s civil society, which has mobilized tremendous resources to support Ukraine’s defense and to address humanitarian needs. Early polling data reveal that nearly one-third of all Ukrainians have volunteered to help fellow citizens or aid the defense effort. Like the veteran community, this group of citizens will have considerable influence in Ukrainian politics and will help to shape the agenda from inside and outside of government, much as they did after the Revolution of Dignity. Civil society is certain to play a role in monitoring expenditures of international funds earmarked for Ukraine’s economic recovery.

<h3>What Do These Changes Mean for Ukraine and Its Western Supporters? </h3>

Domestic politics in Ukraine are bound to transform as a result of the war, and there are many challenges ahead. Chief among them, Ukrainian society will have to contend with the difficult question of how to reconcile the role that certain political figures played in the years before the invasion with the roles they have assumed in the months since. This applies not only to previously pro-Russian politicians and regional strongmen, but also Ukraine’s oligarchs. It will also have to ensure that the patriotic fervor that has enabled Ukraine to resist the Russian invasion does not metastasize into toxic intolerance or trigger illiberal shortcuts that could damage the country in the long run.

Yet, for the first time since 2015–16, when reforms introduced after the Revolution of Dignity began to lose steam, an opportunity has emerged for Ukraine to fulfill its potential as a democratic state with strong institutions and an economy that is worthy of foreign investment.

As the Russian offensive falters, Ukraine’s Western partners are starting to think about how to help the country recover and rebuild. This process creates an opportunity to support the positive transformations taking place within Ukraine and to safeguard against backsliding. A move by the European Union to forge closer ties with Ukraine—which would require a considerable degree of creativity and flexibility in Brussels, as there are serious obstacles to even granting candidate status—would be a long-term boon for reformers and would fortify elected officials to make tough decisions for the public good.

In the interim, states and institutions providing financial assistance for Ukraine’s reconstruction should help promote strong anti-corruption mechanisms to attract additional investments and reinforce the rule of law. Policymakers in the West should monitor for signs that oligarchs and corrupt officials are positioning themselves to recapture state institutions and funds, speak with one voice about the impermissibility of returning to certain “old habits,” and help develop the capacity of responsible actors to secure the bright future that Ukraine deserves. There is a tremendous opportunity for Ukraine to strengthen its democracy following the war. It must be seized.

<h3>Important Advisories</h3>

OFAC issues advisories to the public on important issues related to the sanctions programs it administers. While these documents may focus on specific industries and activities, they should be reviewed by any party interested in OFAC compliance.

Advisory Regarding the Obfuscation of Critical Information in Financial and Trade Transactions Involving the Crimea Region of Ukraine (Issued July 30, 2015)
<h3>Interpretive Guidance</h3>

OFAC issues interpretive guidance on specific issues related to the sanctions programs it administers. These interpretations of OFAC policy are sometimes published in response to a public request for guidance or may be released proactively by OFAC in order to address a complex topic.

<h3>Applying for a Specific OFAC License</h3>

It may be in your and the U.S. government’s interest to authorize particular economic activity related to the Ukraine-/Russia-related Sanctions. Visit the link below to apply for an OFAC license.

Apply for an OFAC License Online - Authorization from OFAC to engage in a transaction that otherwise would be prohibited.
<h3>Guidance on OFAC Licensing Policy</h3>

Certain activities related to the Ukraine-/Russia-related Sanctions may be allowed if they are licensed by OFAC. Below OFAC has issued guidance and statements on specific licensing policies as they relate to the Ukraine-/Russia-related Sanctions.

Licenses for Legal Fees and Costs - Guidance on the Release of Limited Amounts of Blocked Funds for Payment of Legal Fees and Costs Incurred in Challenging the Blocking of U.S. Persons in Administrative or Civil Proceedings
Entities Owned By Blocked Persons - Guidance On Entities Owned By Persons Whose Property And Interests In Property Are Blocked
<h3>General Licenses</h3>

OFAC issues general licenses in order to authorize activities that would otherwise be prohibited with regard to Ukraine-/Russia-related Sanctions. General licenses allow all US persons to engage in the activity described in the general license without needing to apply for a specific license.

Ukraine General License Number 11 - Authorizing Certain Transactions With FAU Glavgosekspertiza Rossii (December 20, 2016)

<h3>Legal Framework for the Ukraine-/Russia-related Sanctions</h3>

The Ukraine-/Russia-related Sanctions program represents the implementation of multiple legal authorities. Some of these authorities are in the form of an executive order issued by the President. Other authorities are public laws (statutes) passed by The Congress. These authorities are further codified by OFAC in its regulations which are published in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). Modifications to these regulations are posted in the Federal Register.

USAID supports participatory, transparent, and accountable governance processes in Ukraine. USAID works at the national level by identifying and supporting anti-corruption champion institutions and transparent service delivery, as well as at the local level, by building a foundation for decentralization and effective local governance. USAID programs strengthen the rule of law by improving judicial accountability and independence, and promote human rights protections consistent with European standards. USAID also develops the ability of citizens and civil society to recognize and fight corruption, oversee and inform government decision-making, and advocate for community priorities. USAID programs support the role of media in a democratic society by increasing journalistic professionalism, helping produce high-quality news content, and increasing citizen resilience to propaganda and disinformation. USAID helps ensure that elections are free and fair, while also working to increase the accountability of political parties and elected officials before their constituents.

Current programs:
<h3>RULE OF LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS:</h3>
Global Labor Program: Ukraine
Project Period: February 1, 2016 – September 30, 2022
The Global Labor Program (GLP) strengthens worker organizations and other civil society advocates for workers' rights, promoting access to justice for workers, ensuring equal employment opportunities for women and vulnerable groups, and developing the ability to effectively reduce trafficking in persons and labor rights violations. GLP works to strengthen the effectiveness of partner Ukrainian trade unions across the country, including their leadership, focusing on anti-corruption and freedom of association initiatives for internally displaced persons (IDPs), migrants, workers, and the disabled.
<h3>COUNTERING TRAFFICKING IN PERSONS:</h3>
Countering Trafficking in Persons (TIP) Project
Project Period: July 20, 2004 – January 1, 2023
The USAID Countering Trafficking in Persons Initiative is part of a broader U.S. Government effort to reduce trafficking in persons in Ukraine by transitioning services for victims of trafficking, such as registration, referral and reintegration assistance to full Ukrainian ownership. This includes efforts to strengthen the Ukrainian government’s national referral mechanism, increase government funding for counter trafficking efforts, and increase the involvement of non-governmental service providers in the national referral mechanism.
<h3>CIVIL SOCIETY DEVELOPMENT:</h3>
Enhance Non-governmental Actors and Grassroots Engagements (ENGAGE)
Project Period: October 1, 2016 – September 30, 2023
USAID’s flagship Enhance Non-Governmental Actors and Grassroots Engagement (ENGAGE) activity works to increase citizen awareness of and engagement in civic actions at the national, regional, and local level. ENGAGE focuses on four key objectives: (1) enhancing civic education; (2) supporting civic coalitions and initiatives at the national, regional, and local levels; (3) strengthening organizational capacity of partner CSOs; and (4) developing the long-term sustainability of civic engagement in democratic reforms. The five-year program provides funding, and organizational strengthening while also strengthening networking among citizens, civic organizations, and coalitions on critical areas of democratic reform, with a special focus on anti-corruption. ENGAGE builds on earlier USAID civil society strengthening efforts that worked to empower Ukrainian CSOs to represent citizens’ interests and drive Ukraine’s reform agenda through more effective advocacy, monitoring, and activism.

Small Project Assistance Program (SPA)
Project Period: October 1, 2018 – September 30, 2023
The Small Project Assistance Program (SPA) promotes and supports community self-help efforts by providing small amounts of funding for activities that can have an immediate impact at the community level. The program also supports technical skills training to help local leaders improve the design and management of sustainable community development efforts.
SPA encourages effective, sustainable development projects in sectors ranging from health to agriculture to small enterprise development. Through the SPA activity, Peace Corps volunteers assist local communities to develop and implement small community-initiated projects in such areas as health and sanitation, basic education -- including non-formal areas of education for out-of-school youth, women's organizations and other disadvantaged groups, agricultural and economic growth activities, environmental activities, and civic education and democracy building activities.
Ukraine Civil Society Sectoral Support
Project Period: October 1, 2019 – September 30, 2024
The Ukraine Civil Society Sectoral Support Activity works to improve the social and political environment for civil society and strengthen the ability of civil society organizations (CSOs) to sustain themselves and strengthen the self-reliance of the overall civic sector in Ukraine. The three activity objectives are to: (1) strengthen the ability of society organizations to sustain themselves and the work they do; (2) strengthen the legal enabling environment for civil society; (3) stimulate increased research and learning to better understand civil society’s challenges, and take advantage of opportunities and best practices. To increase the sustainability and self-reliance of civil society organizations, the five-year program provides support to a diverse range of Ukrainian civil society organizations and civic groups throughout the country on a demand-driven/needs-based approach in areas identified as critical to long term CSO self-sustainability. The activity strives to improve legal and regulatory policies related to the operating environment for civil society by improving monitoring and advocacy, increase awareness of new legislation, and ensure sufficient legal aid for civic activists and organizations.
Transformation Communications Activity
Project Period: July 1, 2020 – June 30, 2025
The purpose of the USAID Transformation Communications Activity (TCA) is to increase the resilience of Ukraine’s democracy with innovative communications initiatives about democratic transformation and European integration. This will be achieved through three primary objectives: 1) equip USAID and its partners to conduct data-driven communications; 2) increase the quality and quantity of strategic communications on reform dividends; and 3) broaden the use of social impact content by Ukraine’s civic leaders and creative sector.
The Media Program in Ukraine
Project Period: October 1, 2018 – September 30, 2023
The Media Program in Ukraine strengthens the civically relevant role of media in democratic processes and helps expand citizens’ access to quality information to counter malign influences and support European integration. Media Program partners work to establish a constructive dialogue between local authorities and citizens by raising public awareness of reforms, and engaging local residents in the decision-making process. The activity focuses on the following major objectives: (1) increase high-quality, engaging news content; (2) increase public demand for quality news and information; (3) work to implement critical media reforms; and, (4) strengthen and sustain key media institutions and processes.

<h3>YOUTH:</h3>
Ukraine National Identity Through Youth (UNITY) Activity
Project Period: August 10, 2020 – August 9, 2025
The purpose of the new Ukraine National Identity Through Youth (UNITY) Activity is to foster vested ownership among young people, ages 10 through 35, in Ukraine's democratic, European future by further mobilizing youth leadership around a values-based concept of Ukrainian identity grounded in innovation, engagement, and pluralism. This will be achieved through the following interconnected objectives: 1) Improved innovation, entrepreneurship, and career preparedness skills by youth expand economic opportunities; 2) Youth broaden their engagement in civic and community problem- solving; 3) Youth drive Ukraine’s pluralism and respect for diversity; and 4) Research and learning on youth-related data, trends, and approaches inform youth policy and programming.
<h3>POLITICAL PROCESS:</h3>
Ukraine Responsive and Accountable Politics Program (U-RAP)
Project Period: April 1, 2016 – March 31, 2025
The USAID Ukraine Responsive and Accountable Politics Program (U-RAP) promotes political processes that lead to more representative, transparent, and accountable governance. The activity emphasizes four main areas: promoting political party accountability and inclusivity at the national level, enhancing the representation of citizens' interests by party and government officials at the local level, improving the environment for political competition, and supporting electoral stakeholders in Ukraine to ensure free and fair elections. The activity equitably assists a broad spectrum of democratic parties in Ukraine and maintains a geographical balance nationwide. In select regions, the activity raises the responsiveness and awareness of local elected political actors to the interests of their citizens, and strengthens the political and leadership skills among youth. The activity also promotes dialogue within communities on national reform issues. U-RAP strengthens civil society's role developing and implementing election-related legislation. It provides technical assistance to the Central Election Commission (CEC), particularly on the training of election commissions, while also developing voter education materials and working with the CEC to help voters understand the new rules. The activity is implemented by a consortium that consists of the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs, the International Republican Institute, and the International Foundation for Election Systems.
Domestic Oversight of Political Processes in Ukraine Program
Project Period: January 1, 2014 – August 21, 2022</

strong></
strong>
This activity is working to improve Ukraine’s electoral process and corresponding legislation to better reflect the will of the Ukrainian people. The goal is to improve the integrity of Ukrainian elections through domestic monitoring, support development and implementation of relevant legislation that is inclusive, transparent and conforms to European standards, and increase the organizational and technical capacity of the Civic Network OPORA.
<h3><stron g>GOVERNANCE:</
strong></h3>
Governance and Local Accountability (HOVERLA) Activity
Project period: March 19, 2021 – March 18, 2026
HOVERLA will assist the Government of Ukraine to further develop a strong legal framework for local governance that provides an appropriate balance of authority and responsibility between local self-government institutions and subnational and national executives. The Activity will also support sectoral and fiscal decentralization to ensure local government accountability, effective citizen engagement, and oversight by: 1) ensuring Ukraine's system of local self-governance is increasingly institutionalized and effective; 2) facilitating more self-reliant subnational governance; and 3) creating mechanisms that allow citizens to play an increasingly influential role in local governance processes.
<strong
>Decentralization Offering Better Results and Efficiency (DOBRE)
Project Period: June 8, 2016 – September 30, 2022</
strong>
DOBRE provides comprehensive assistance to local communities to make local government effective, responsive, capable of delivering tangible benefits to citizens, and able to quickly implement reforms in key sectors. DOBRE is part of a coordinated package of international donor assistance to the Government of Ukraine to implement nationwide decentralization reforms and ensure the success of newly consolidated communities.
DOBRE has two primary objectives: (1) build the capacity of consolidated communities to carry out their responsibilities and provide quality services to their constituents, and (2) increase the involvement of local residents and civil society organizations in local government decision-making, while holding local officials accountable through monitoring and oversight.
<strong
>FIGHTING
CORRUPTION:

<strong
>Transparency and Accountability in Public Administration and Services (TAPAS)
Project Period: August 4, 2016 – August 3, 2022</
strong>
This joint USAID/UKaid activity develops and provides e-governance tools to reduce opportunities for corruption within the Government of Ukraine (GOU) and engages the public in anti-corruption efforts. TAPAS features three major components: (1) training for (GOU) officials to use software-based procurement processes to reduce corruption (e.g. eliminating malfeasance, providing transparency in acquisition, and imposing accountability); (2) an Open Data initiative that disseminates standardized, accessible, consistent GOU data for public, intra-governmental, and international oversight, and; (3) an eServices platform to provide government services over a secure and user-friendly medium.

Support to Anti-Corruption Champion Institutions (SACCI)
Project Period: June 14, 2017 – June 13, 2022
The Support to Anti-Corruption Champion Institutions (SACCI) activity reduces corruption and increases government accountability and transparency in Ukraine. The activity has three objectives: 1) empower key government institutions to fight corruption, 2) increase public support for, and engagement in, anti-corruption efforts, and 3) reduce the public's tolerance of corrupt practices.

On February 24, 2022, Russia began a military invasion of Ukraine, launching attacks on many cities. The Government of Canada has since put in place measures to help Ukrainians in and outside Canada.

If you are a Canadian in Ukraine and need emergency consular assistance, contact the Emergency Watch and Response Centre.

Immigration measures for Ukrainians and their family members

Visit Immigration measures and support for Ukrainians and their families for general information.

Apply for the Canada-Ukraine authorization for emergency travel to come to Canada temporarily.

For urgent help or questions about your application, contact us:

- telephone: +1 613-321-4243 (collect calls accepted)
- web form

Support for Ukrainians

Immigration measures

Helping Ukrainians come to Canada. Assisting Canadian citizens and permanent residents to return home.

Jobs for Ukraine

Jobs on Job Bank that Ukrainians can apply for, with information for employers who recruit them.

Provincial and territorial resources

State system of Ukraine

CONSTITUTION

The Verkhovna Rada (Ukrainian parliament) adopted the Constitution of Ukraine in force June 28, 1996

 According to this country’s Basic Law, Ukraine is a sovereign, independent, democratic, and social state with a rule of law. Although such features as ‘sovereign’ and ‘independent’ are, in fact, closely similar, in this case the European constitutional tradition and principal thesis of fighters for Ukrainian statehood are concurrent. By the ‘democratic’ feature the principle of the government by the people is emphasized being defined concretely by Article 5 stating that “the people are the bearers of sovereignty and the only source of power in Ukraine” exercising it “directly and through bodies of state power and bodies of local self-government.’ By the attribute ‘social the responsibility of the State to provide for the social protection of the population is stipulated, while the ‘rule of law’ implies that in Ukraine legality is to reign as the general measure of freedom, equality and justice.

Principle is the definition of the form of government by Article 6: “State power in Ukraine is exercised on the principles of its division into legislative, executive and judicial power.” The Constitution defines by Article 75 the Verkhovna Rada as the sole organ of legislative power in Ukraine, with the highest executive body being the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine (Article 113). The Constitutional Court of Ukraine and courts of general jurisdiction exercise judicial proceedings in Ukraine (Articles 124 and 125). Article 102 defines the status of the President of Ukraine: “The President of Ukraine is the Head of State and acts in its name.”

The Constitution of Ukraine currently in force was assessed on the whole positively by the most authoritative in the sphere of constitutional legislation “Democracy through the Law” Commission of the Council of Europe”, more known as “the Venetian Commission”.

INSTITUTE OF PRESIDENCY IN UKRAINE

In Ukraine, the institute of presidency at the head of state is comparatively new phenomenon in political life and state building of Ukraine.

The birth of a democratic society in the country began as far back as during the Cossacks; however, the tremendous development of democracy and, at the same time, formation of the institute of presidency occurred at the background of the struggle for liberation during the second decade of the 20th century. Four Universals (decrees) were issued during the Central Rada that had to lay the basis the democratization of the Ukrainian society. On April 29, 1918, the Central Rada elected Mykhailo Hrushevsky the President of the Ukrainian People’s Republic and by its latest decree of January 22, 1919, declaring complete political independence of Ukraine from Russia.

Within the USSR, the functions of the head of state in the Ukrainian SSR until 1991 was performed by the Verkhovna Rada, seem as the supreme organ of the state power, its Presidium as continuing body of the Government, and its Chairman.

Making the institution of presidency of Ukraine was the key element in the reformation of state power connected with the proclamation of Ukrainian independence and change of its constitutional system. On July 5, 1991, the following laws of Ukraine were adopted: “On Founding the Post of President of the Ukrainian SSR and Introduction of Changes and Addenda to the Constitution (Fundamental Law) of the Ukrainian SSR”, “On President of the Ukrainian SSR”, and “On Elections of President of the Ukrainian SSR”.

The Institute of Presidency in its present form did not form at once. At first, the President in accord to his status and title was the highest official in the country, becoming next the Head of State and Executive Power, to act as the Head of State at present in accord with the Constitution in force.

EXECUTIVE POWER

The government, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, which consists of the Prime Minister Ukraine, First Vice Prime Minister, three Vice Prime Ministers and seventeen various departmental Ministers, exercises executive power in Ukraine.

The Prime Minister heads the Cabinet and directs its work. The President appoints the Prime Minister under the consent of over half of the constitutional composition of the Verkhovna Rada. The President on the advice of the Prime Minister appoints personal composition of the Cabinet of Ministers.

The Prime Minister is responsible to the President and accountable and acts under control of the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine.

Within its authority, the Government issues decrees and regulations mandatory for execution. The Prime Minister signs the deeds of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine.

In case of Prime Minister’s resignation or no confidence resolution adopted by the Verkhovna Rada all the Government steps down from the office.

The Cabinet of Ministers provides for carrying out financial, price, investment and taxation policies, as well as actions in the spheres of labor and employment of population, social protection, education, science and culture, environment protection, ecological security and nature management.

The Cabinet of Ministers works out the draft of the Law on the State Budget of Ukraine for approval by the Verkhovna Rada, and ensures its execution.

Since the time of the Declaration on the State Sovereignty of Ukraine being adopted on July 16, 1990, the composition of the Cabinet of Ministers have changed twelve times. It is the twelfth government of Ukraine that is now in power.

One may learn about the Cabinet of Ministers in Chapter VI of the Constitution of Ukraine regulating the operation of the Ukrainian Government as well as by addressing the official web-site of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine

NATIONAL ORGANS OF EXECUTIVE POWER

In addition to the Cabinet of Ministers, the system of the national executive body includes ministries, state committees (public services) and special status central agencies of executive power.

Ministry is the primary organ within the system of the national executive body to realize the government policy in the defined sphere of activity, being managed by a Minister. As member of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, the Minister is responsible for development and implementation of the Program of the Cabinet on correspondent issues and realization of the Government policy within the defined sphere of governing the state. He exercises administration in this sphere, directs and coordinates the activities of other organs of executive power on issues ascribed to his authority.

State Committee (Public Service) is a central organ of executive power with activity directed and coordinated by the Prime Minister of Ukraine, any of the Vice Prime Ministers or Ministers. The State Committee (Public Service) puts forward propositions concerning formulation of the Government policy to the correspondent members of the Cabinet of Ministers and ensures its realization in the sphere defined, exercises control in this sphere as well as interdepartmental coordination and functional regulation on issues delegated to its authority. Chairperson heads the State Committee (Public Service).

Special Status Central Organ of Executive Power has a special mission and authority defined by the Constitution and legislation of Ukraine with specific order of formation, shaking-up, removal, accountability and reporting, as well as appointing and dismissal of management staff and settling other issues.

Chairperson heads special status central organ of executive power

JUDICIAL BRANCH OF POWER

According to the Constitution, Justice in Ukraine is administered solely by courts. The delegation of court functions, as well as their usurpation by other bodies and officials is not allowed. Courts have jurisdiction over all legal relations, which develop in the State.

The Constitution points out that the establishment of extraordinary and special courts is prohibited.

The general structure of the judicial system is stipulated in Article 124 of the Constitution of Ukraine, according to which the justice is administered by the Constitutional Court of Ukraine and by courts of general jurisdiction.

The courts of general jurisdiction administer justice in the form of civil, commercial, administrative and criminal legislation. The Constitutional Court of Ukraine is a special judicial body of constitutional control.

 Justice is administered by professional judges and, in cases overseen by the law, by people’s assessors and juries. The independence of judges is guaranteed by their immunity and their election by the Supreme Rada permanently after their first appointment to the position of professional judge by the President of Ukraine for a five-year term.

CITIZENSHIP

Ukrainian citizenship is the primary pre-requisite for the State to protect rights and freedoms of its citizens on the territory ofUkraine as well as beyond its borders.

In accord with the Constitution of Ukraine, single citizenship is being exercised in the country. Ukraine does not support the idea of multiple citizenries since a person is not capable to equally efficiently use the rights and bear responsibilities with regard to several states. If a Ukrainian citizen acquired citizenship (nationality) of another country or countries, in legal relations withUkraine he/she is treated as the citizen of exclusively Ukraine. The same concerns an alien that acquired Ukrainian citizenship who is regarded in legal relations with this country as Ukrainian subject only. As to the issue of multiple citizenships, the position of Ukraine is fully in line with the international rules.

The Law “On the Ukrainian Nationality” states that irrespectively of the grounds for the acquiring, the citizenship of Ukraine is single and equal. Unrelated to the fact of citizenry being it from birth or receiving it on different grounds, all the nationals use equal rights and bear identical responsibilities.

The Law also stipulates the reasons for naturalization, in particular, by origin, by free choice, by reinstating citizenship, etc. Simultaneously, the law of Ukraine denies obtaining citizenship by certain categories of persons, specifically, to those who committed crime against humanity, perpetrated genocide, used acts of violence against the national independence of Ukraine, etc.

The same Law also provides for the grounds to give up Ukrainian citizenship and the procedure of carrying it out.

Revoking Ukrainian citizenship is allowed only under the condition that the person obtained citizenship of another country or is in possession of a document issued by the authorities of another nation proving the citizen is to receive the latter’s nationality after revoking that of Ukraine. The condition is directed at avoiding cases of stateless persons emerging resulted through abrogating Ukrainian subjecthood. Revoking Ukrainian citizenship is not allowed if a person seeking this is brought to trial being under accusation of criminal offence or against whom there is a court indictment in Ukraine that gained force and is executory.

Citizens of Ukraine are not liable to be deprived of citizenship or the right to alter the one, as well as of the right to return toUkraine at any time. Also, Ukrainian subjects cannot be banished or extradited.

Habitation or temporal stay of Ukrainian citizen beyond the country’s border does not sever his/her citizenship of Ukraine.

Aliens and stateless persons that stay in Ukraine of lawful grounds use the same rights and freedoms, and bear the same responsibilities as the citizens of Ukraine, which norm is vested in the Law of Ukraine “On Legal Status of Aliens”.

Ukraine meets its international commitments concerning protection of the human right of persons that left the country of his/her patriality or permanent residence. In particular, aliens and stateless persons may be granted asylum in accord with “The Law on Refugees”.

The President of Ukraine takes decision on admitting to and revoking citizenship of Ukraine, as well as granting asylum to aliens and stateless persons.

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Ukraine's struggle with corruption has prevented it from becoming a full, prosperous democracy and hinders its ability to respond effectively to Russian violations of its sovereignty. This Helsinki Commission staff report examines why corruption has been so persistent in Ukraine. It provides a historical analysis of corruption in Ukraine from its break with the Soviet system to today, reviewing the current state of reforms and providing recommendations in context.

The resilience and influence of Ukraine's oligarchs are at the heart of the country's persistent corruption. Oligarchs have captured the Ukrainian state, crowding out non-corrupt political parties and competing with one another to steal Ukraine's wealth. They are not so much businesspeople as courtiers, who transform political and personal connections into monopolies supported by the state.

Two phenomena in particular have given rise to this system of oligarchic competition: (1) the lack of reforms in the early years of independent Ukraine, which resulted in incomplete economic liberalization, and (2) gas arbitrage, which has been uniquely devastating to reform attempts due to building so many oligarchic fortunes and providing a backdoor for Russia to influence Ukrainian politics for decades.

Today's Ukraine has implemented many important reforms that have helped to counter corruption, specifically in energy, finance, and economics. However, judicial reforms continue to lag behind. Commentators have observed that progress has slowed and frustration among civil society and the international community has increased.

This report recommends that Ukraine move forward with remaining reforms, supported by both civil society and the international community. Most important is that Ukraine not allow backsliding to occur. Ultimately, the oligarchs must be transformed from courtiers into entrepreneurs and businesspeople so as to finally end the pervasive institutionalized corruption. An empowered Ukrainian civil society--including independent media--will be paramount to such reforms, and has proven time and again that it is world class in its engagement. Key here is to condemn any attempt to hinder or harm civil society.

The report makes numerous recommendations by sector, with an emphasis on the importance of reforming the judiciary. In particular, Ukraine should establish an anticorruption court as soon as possible, so as to provide the final necessary piece of Ukraine's anticorruption architecture.

Additional reform areas discussed include the safeguarding and further empowering of the anticorruption architecture; implementing privatization and additional regulatory and corporate governance reform as the next step for energy sector reform; pursuing consolidation and transparency as ideas for banking sector reform; and limiting parliamentary immunity.

This report also discusses greater e-government and press freedom as mechanisms to empower Ukrainian civil society, including independent media, to monitor the reform process and prevent backsliding. Finally, it encourages the international community to continue its support for Ukraine and dig in for the long haul.

II. INTRODUCTION

2.1. The Importance of Ukraine for U.S. Foreign Policy

The issue of corruption in Ukraine is a part of a larger U.S. foreign policy effort to counter the threat that corruption presents to U.S. interests around the globe. As Chairman Wicker and fourteen other Senators wrote earlier this year:

A world that is a more democratic, respects human rights, and abides by the rule of law strengthens the security, stability, and prosperity of America. History has demonstrated time and time again that free societies are more likely to be at peace with one another. Constitutional democracies are also less likely to fail and become breeding grounds for instability and migration. Democratic nations that respect good governance and the rights of their citizens are also more likely to be economically successful, and to be stable and reliable trade partners for the United States. \1\

In Ukraine, pervasive corruption has been both a cause and a symptom of political weaknesses since the country gained its independence in 1991. It has also rendered Ukraine vulnerable to malign Russian influence and eventually outright invasion.

Russia, in fact, has weaponized corruption, both to exploit and undermine the rule of law in countries where Moscow seeks exercise influence or control and as a means of protecting and laundering the ill-gotten gains of Russia's power elite. As Brian Whitmore explained at a 2017 Helsinki Commission briefing, ``The Kremlin's black cash is the new red menace, and it has to be looked at that way. Corruption as a tool of statecraft is something that is spreading from Moscow and is spreading as a tool of influence.'' \2\ Monies stolen by the Russian government have ended up hidden in real estate in London, Miami, or New York, or funneled through anonymous companies to offshore accounts. These corrupt monies have a debilitating effect in their country of destination, influencing politics and generating resentment. \3\

\2\ Remarks of Brian Whitmore, senior analyst with RFE/RL, U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe. Kleptocrats of the Kremlin: Ties Between Business and Power in Russia. 2017, Briefing, 115th Cong., 1st sess., Washington, DC: Government Publishing Office.

\3\ U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe. Kleptocrats of the Kremlin: Ties Between Business and Power in Russia. 2017, Briefing, 115th Cong., 1st sess., Washington, DC: Government Publishing Office.

The corrosive effects of corruption in Ukraine understandably fueled widespread frustration and anger that, in 2013--ironically, a year when Ukraine held the Chairmanship of the OSCE--spilled out in the streets. On its face, the Maidan protests were a reaction to the government's rejection of an association agreement with the European Union.

In reality, the European Union had become a stand-in symbol for the rule of law and good governance and the protests were a demand for those basic elements of democracy. Perhaps nothing illustrates Moscow's hand in Ukraine's corruption as concisely as the image of ousted Ukrainian President Yanukovich fleeing Kyiv by helicopter, after the deaths of 100 protesters, in a nighttime flight to Moscow where he continues to enjoy refuge from prosecution. His abrupt departure enabled protesters to enter the president's extraordinarily lavish residence which some have dubbed ``a museum of corruption.'' \4\ \4\ Andrew Higgens, ``Ukraine Palace Is Still Emblem of Dysfunction,'' The New York Times, Sept. 8, 2014.

At a 2014 Helsinki Commission hearing on corruption in the OSCE region, then-Chairman Ben Cardin addressed both the general issue of corruption and the specific challenges before Ukraine:

Democratic societies function based on a high level of trust in each other and the institutions that underpin democracies. Corruption undermines that trust, and thus undermines the very foundation of democracies. Research has shown a high level of correlation between failed states and endemic corruption. [. . .] component of the Euromaidan protests--the Revolution of Dignity--was the people's disgust with pervasive governmental corruption. With the election of President Poroshenko in May and new, pro-European parliament elected last month, Ukraine has a real opportunity. \5\

\5\ U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe, Combating Corruption in the OSCE: The Link Between Security and Good Governance, 2014, Hearing, Pub. 95-572, 113th Cong., 2nd sess., Washington, DC: Government Publishing Office.

Today, the rule of law and corruption are currently engaged in a struggle for dominance in Ukraine. It is both in the interest of the United States and the well-being of the Ukrainian people that rule of law come away victorious.

Finally, for the first time, it seems real reforms are within reach.

2.2. Structure of the Report

Despite an active civil society and an impressive independent media, Ukraine seems perennially unable to tackle its corruption problem. This Helsinki Commission staff report mines the past of independent Ukraine for hints as to why corruption has proven so insurmountable in the country. By pinpointing and analyzing the reasons for the persistence of corruption in Ukraine, it develops recommendations for further reforms and strategies to address these reasons.

This analysis will delve into the development of corruption under each Ukrainian president from independence to present day: how rent was sought, who sought it, and what was done about it. This report will then pull out to a wide lens to pinpoint the phenomena of Ukrainian history that have resulted in the persistence of corruption in the country and offers recommendations and conclusions based on addressing these phenomena.

III. BACKGROUND

3.1. Ukraine and the OSCE

The Helsinki Commission is mandated to monitor the compliance of participating States with commitments made as part of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE). These commitments include those in the Second Dimension on what is known as ``Good Governance.'' These commitments were most recently renewed in a 2012 Ministerial Declaration in Dublin, \6\ titled ``Declaration on Strengthening Good Governance and Combating Corruption, Money-Laundering and the Financing of Terrorism.'' Via this declaration, all OSCE participating States:

\6\ OSCE Ministerials are annual meetings of the Foreign Ministers of the 57 participating States of the OSCE and provide the second highest form of political decision-making after a summit, which are irregular meetings of the Heads of State. As such, Ministerial Decisions are the most common source of high-level political direction for the OSCE.

. . . reaffirm[ed] their commitment to tackling corruption and countering money-laundering, the financing of terrorism and related offenses by making them policy priorities back up by appropriate legal instruments, adequate financial, human and institutional resources and, where necessary, appropriate tools for their practical and effective implementation. \7\

\7\ Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe, Ministerial Council, Declaration on Strengthening Good Governance and Combating Corruption, Money-Laundering and the Financing of Terrorism, 2012, Journal No. 2, item 7, 19th Mtg., 2nd Day, Dublin: 2.

The Soviet Union was one of the founding participating States of the OSCE. Following the dissolution of the Soviet Union, independent Ukraine became a participating State of the OSCE. In 1994, the OSCE established a field mission to Ukraine in Kyiv, with a specific focus on the situation in Crimea and related constitutional questions. Among other activities, the mission facilitated the engagement of the OSCE High Commissioner on National Minorities and addressed the status of returning Crimean Tatars who had been forcibly deported from the peninsula by Stalin in 1944.

In 1999, this mission was closed and replaced with a scaled-down OSCE Project Coordinator for Ukraine, which exists to this day. \8\ Although on its face the mandate for the new Project Coordinator was broader than the original mission mandate, \9\ the Ukrainian government's goal was to demonstrate that it had ``graduated'' from the need for a full-scale mission and to diminish the OSCE's presence.

\8\ Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe, Permanent Council, Decision No. 295, 1999, Journal No. 231, item 1, 231st Plen. Mtg., Vienna: 1.

\9\ The new mandate envisioned that ``particular emphasis will be placed on the planning and preparation of a large-scale project entitled `Comprehensive Review of Human Rights Legislation' to be started no later than fall 1999.'' DECISION No. 295 Decision of the Permanent Council of Organization on Security and Cooperation in Europe, PC.DEC/295, June 1, 1999, 231st Plenary Meeting of the Permanent Council, PC Journal No. 231, Agenda Item 1.

Corruption issues are not explicitly included within the mandate of the Project Coordinator, although they may be addressed under the favored OSCE euphemism ``good governance.'' Thus, according to the OSCE website:

The OSCE Project Coordinator supports Ukraine's reforms and helps the country meet crisis-related challenges. Its projects actively contribute to major transformations, critical for the stable and democratic future of the country. The Coordinator's approach is multi-dimensional and covers a wide array of activities, such as constitutional reform, legal and criminal justice reform; human rights and legal education; dialogue as a tool to deal with crises and implement reforms; psychological and social rehabilitation of crisis-affected people; the fight against cybercrime and human trafficking; mine action and democratic control of the security sector; environmental protection; border security; media freedom; elections; good governance; and gender equality. \10\

\10\ Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe, Project Coordinator in Ukraine, ``OSCE Project Coordinator in Ukraine,'' http://www.osce.org/project-coordinator-in-ukraine (accessed July 22, 2017).

Other OSCE institutions that exist today within Ukraine are the Special Monitoring Mission (SMM), and the OSCE Observer Mission at the Russian Checkpoints Gukovo and Donetsk. Neither of the missions have an anti-corruption mandate.

According to the OSCE website:

The OSCE Special Monitoring Mission to Ukraine (SMM) was deployed on 21 March 2014, following a request to the OSCE by Ukraine's government and a consensus decision by all 57 OSCE participating States. The SMM is an unarmed, civilian mission, present on the ground 24/7 in all regions of Ukraine. Its main tasks are to observe and report in an impartial and objective way on the situation in Ukraine; and to facilitate dialogue among all parties to the crisis. \11\

3.2. What is Corruption?

Corruption features heavily in the narratives of all political systems. Transparency International, a global anti-corruption coalition, divides corruption into three categories: grand corruption, political corruption, and petty corruption. All of these forms of corruption are present in Ukraine.

Grand corruption: ``The abuse of high-level power that benefits the few at the expense of the many, and causes serious and widespread harm to individuals and society. It often goes unpunished.'' \12\ The most common form of grand corruption throughout Ukrainian history has been gas arbitrage.

\12\ Transparency International, ``Grand Corruption,'' https://www.transparency.org/glossary/term/grand_corruption (accessed June 18, 2017).

Political corruption: ``Manipulation of policies, institutions and rules of procedure in the allocation of resources and financing by political decision makers, who abuse their position to sustain their power, status and wealth.'' \13\ In Ukraine, the parliament has been the center of political corruption.

\13\ Transparency International, ``Political Corruption,'' https://www.transparency.org/glossary/term/political_corruption (accessed June 18, 2017).

Petty corruption: ``Everyday abuse of entrusted power by public officials in their interactions with ordinary citizens, who often are trying to access basic goods or services in places like hospitals, schools, police departments and other agencies.'' \14\ This is true of most state administration in Ukraine.

\14\ Transparency International, ``Petty Corruption,'' https://www.transparency.org/glossary/term/petty_corruption (accessed June 18, 2017).

Transparency International also compiles a yearly ``Corruption Perceptions Index'' (CPI) that ``measures the perceived levels of public sector corruption worldwide based on expert opinion from around the world.'' \15\ \15\ Transparency International, ``Corruption Perceptions Index 2016,'' Transparency International, January 25, 2017, https://www.transparency.org/whatwedo/publication/corruption_perceptions_index_2016 (accessed June 18, 2017).

Currently, Ukraine is ranked 131 out of 176 countries monitored, \16\ one of the worst rankings in the entire OSCE region. It ties with Russia, and only Kyrgyzstan (136), Tajikistan (151), Turkmenistan (154), and Uzbekistan (156) are worse. In contrast, Georgia--another late reformer from the OSCE region--ranks 44, right below Spain and tying with Latvia. \17\

3.3. Corruption in Ukraine

According to Thomas de Waal, senior associate with Carnegie Europe, `` `Corruption' is an inadequate word to describe the conditions in Ukraine. Since the country achieved independence in 1991, the problem is not that a well-functioning state has been corrupted by certain illegal practices; rather, those corrupt practices have constituted the rules by which the state has been run. Ukraine's political system is best described as state capture.'' \18\ \18\ Thomas De Wall, ``Fighting a Culture of Corruption in Ukraine,'' The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, 2016: 1.

3.3.1. The Soviet Legacy

From 1922 until 1991, Ukraine was the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic and a constituent piece of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR). During this time, Russia nurtured Ukrainian energy dependence. Edward Chow notes, ``It's not just a matter of pattern of trade or infrastructure that preserves that pattern of trade, but also highly centralized and therefore political allocation of energy assets and energy supply.''

Chow also notes that this is an artificial dependency and does not have to do with Ukraine's geology, which is actually quite favorable. ``Up until the 1970's, Ukraine used to export gas to the Russian Republic,'' he adds.

Chow continues, ``The legacy for Ukraine is you have the highest energy-intensive economy in Europe-energy intensity right after independence that remarkably is higher energy intensity than Russia itself. It has about twice the energy intensity of Poland, which had a rather similar structural economy.'' \19\ At independence, the Ukrainian economy was largely on par with that of Poland, yet these two economies would develop in two very different directions.

\19\ U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe, Energy (In)security in Russia's Periphery, 2017, Briefing.

Louise Shelley, a scholar of transnational organized crime, adds that the contemporary state of affairs is the product of the Soviet legacy, implying Ukraine's inability to break from it: ``The largest element of the Soviet legacy is that of corruption and the underground economy. The shadow economy has not diminished since 1991 but is now estimated at over 50 percent of the economy.'' \20\ (1998): 651.

3.3.2. A Political System of Oligarchic Competition

The Ukrainian semi-presidential system has fluctuated significantly since its inception in 1991. The country has existed under an inconsistent constitutional order that has at times given more power to the Ukrainian Verkhovna Rada (the parliament) and at times the President. The constant in the history of independent Ukraine is the oligarchs, who emerged in the early 1990s under the Presidency of Leonid Kravchuk. Although the names and fortunes have changed, the oligarchic system of rule has come to characterize Ukraine and is the most significant reason why reforms continue to elude the country.

Many of Ukraine's political parties are linked in one way or another to the oligarchs, who view business and political life as indivisible. Taras Kuzio, an expert on Ukrainian politics, writes, ``Ukraine's oligarchs do not commit to deeply held ideological preferences, and personalities matter more than political party programs. Western Ukrainians have dominated the pro-Russian gas lobby even though the region was always anti-Russian in its national identity.'' \21\ Most of the time, two-thirds of parliamentarians have been business millionaires, who look at their seat as an exchange for money and state favors.

\21\ Taras Kuzio, ``Oligarchs, the Partial Reform Equilibrium, and the Euromaidan Revolution,'' in Beyond the Euromaidan: Comparative Perspectives on Advancing Reform in Ukraine, ed. Henry E. Hale and Robert W. Orttung, (Stanford: Stanford University Press, 2016), 187.

A perennial issue is the existence and abuse of parliamentary immunity, afforded to every Member of the Rada, which oligarchs exploit when they feel legally threatened.

3.3.3. Institutionalized Corruption

Institutionalized corruption is pervasive in Ukraine, stretching from the lowest to the highest rungs of society. Even if they do not want to, most Ukrainians end up participating in and perpetuating the cycle. Swedish political scientist Bo Rothstein writes, ``People in severely corrupt systems put the blame on `the system' for forcing them to take part in corruption, thus understanding that they are in a `social trap'-like situation.'' \22\

\22\ Bo Rothstein, ``Anticorruption: the indirect `big bang' approach,'' Review of International Political Economy 18, no. 2 (2011): 233.

The longer this ``social trap situation'' continues, the more it becomes ingrained in institutions until it becomes the self-perpetuating norm. As Robert Harris, an expert on political corruption, puts it, ``Just as a predominantly non-corrupt system will self-correct to deal with corrupt individuals and the legislative or political flaws that facilitated their corruption, so will a predominantly corrupt system self-correct to maintain its corruption following a purge.''

\23\ Robert Harris, Political Corruption: In and Beyond the Nation State (London: Routledge, 2003), 63.

This is reinforced by anticorruption measures that have, until recently, almost exclusively been used to settle political vendettas. For instance, a corruption audit conducted by the Tymoshenko government (2007-2010) was criticized after it labeled only one out of 14 preceding Ukrainian governments as corrupt. Moreover, politicians have been reluctant to support criminal charges against members of their own party and, as Kuzio points out, usually ``defend their colleagues from accusations of corruption and election fraud by claiming that the charges are product of `political repression.' '' \24\

\24\ Taras Kuzio, ``Political Culture and Democracy: Ukraine as an Immobile State,'' East European Politics and Societies 25, no. 1 (2011): 88-113.

3.4. Ukrainian Anticorruption Efforts Today

The Carnegie Endowment's April 2017 Ukraine Reform Monitor noted, ``In the past year, Ukraine's reforms proceeded more slowly than previously against the background of consolidation of executive power under President Petro Poroshenko, resistance from oligarchs, and opposition in the parliament.'' \25\

\25\ ``Ukraine Reform Monitor: April 2017,'' Ukraine Reform Monitor Team, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, April 19, 2017, http://carnegieendowment.org/2017/04/19/ukraine-reform-monitor-april-2017-pub-68700 (accessed July 25, 2017), 1.

Nonetheless, there are reasons to be hopeful and there are many positive indications with regard to anticorruption reform in Ukraine. These primarily include the establishment of an anticorruption architecture and the success of reforms in a number of sectors, most significantly in energy, banking, public procurement, healthcare, economic regulation, and police.

3.4.1. The Anticorruption Architecture

Rather than opting for wholescale reform of the system of law enforcement after Euromaidan, \26\ Ukraine has instead implemented partial reform of the old system and developed parallel anticorruption bodies.

\26\ ``Euromaidan'' describes the 2013-2014 protests against corruption that were spurred by then President Viktor Yanukovych's sudden decision not to sign an Association Agreement with the EU at the behest of Russia. Following months of protests that grew violent and included many attacks on protestors by government-hired thugs and at least 100 fatalities, Yanukovych fled the country via helicopter and is now taking asylum in Russia. He is still wanted in Ukraine for his crimes against protestors as well as the massive corruption he indulged in as President. The period that includes Euromaidan to the flight of Yanukovych has come to be known as the ``Revolution of Dignity.''

Additionally, the State Security Service (SBU) has not been subject to reform. The judicial system is currently subject to reforms, but the speed is glacial, offering the corrupt judges within the existing system ample opportunities to manipulate the reforms.

While often a subject of criticism, the anticorruption architecture in Ukraine is new and is a significant improvement on anything that has been stood up in the past. Its subdivisions are as follows:

The National Anticorruption Bureau (NABU): NABU is responsible for the investigation of officials thought to have committed acts of grand corruption. It has shown some major success so far, with the website claiming there are 410 proceedings under investigation, 260 notices of suspicion, 141 indictments, and 92 cases in court as of October 11, 2017. \27\ Most recently, on October 11, 2017, Deputy Minister of Defense and Igor Pavlovsky and Director of the Department of Public Procurement and Material Supplies of the Ministry of Defense Volodymyr Hulevych were arrested as part of a NABU-led investigation. A NABU-led investigation also led to the stripping of parliamentary immunity from Rada Member Oleksandr Onyshchenko, a rare occurrence that demonstrates NABU's influence. He is now a fugitive outside the country. NABU's investigation into his corrupt dealings is ongoing. \28\

Additionally, its investigations have led to the arrest of the head of the State Fiscal Service, Roman Nasirov, and one of the alleged grey cardinals \29\ in the Rada, Mykola Martynenko. Both Nasirov and Martynenko have been let out on bail by the courts. In the case of Nasirov, his family managed to pay 100 million hryvnia ($3.7 million) in bail. \30\

NABU has so far performed impressively, but continues to be under threat from oligarchic interests in Ukrainian society. For example, Hrant Kostanyan of the Center for European Policy Studies points out, ``The unreformed prosecutor general's office, which retains its Soviet-style powers of coercion, undermines the work of the NABU, whose detectives even got into fistfights with members of the general prosecutor's office in the course of performing their duties.'' \31\

NABU also requires additional investigative authorities, such as the ability to carry out independent wiretapping, in order to grow in effectiveness.

The National Agency for the Prevention of Corruption (NAPC): NAPC is responsible for setting anticorruption policy in Ukraine, and also administers the online financial disclosures (known as e-declarations) of public officials.

The implementation of e-declaration requirements has been lauded by observers as a major anticorruption achievement. \32\ According to the Annual Country Reports on Human Rights Practices for 2016 by the U.S. Department of State, there were indications of near total compliance with e-declaration requirements among officials, and the results provoked public outcry at the lavish lifestyles of these officials. \33\

The Specialized Anticorruption Prosecutor's Office (SAPO): Although SAPO is not a legislatively created agency like NABU and NAPC, it carries out the prosecutions of cases that are investigated by NABU. The Specialized Anticorruption Prosecutor (SAP) is a deputy to the Prosecutor General of Ukraine, but even so has demonstrated considerable independence and integrity.

The missing piece is a National Anticorruption Court, which is currently a top demand of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), since NABU and the anticorruption prosecutor must complete their cases in an ordinary court system that remains pervasively corrupt.

3.4.2. Energy Sector Reform

The most important anticorruption reform has occurred in the energy sector. Domestic gas subsidies coupled with subsidized Russian gas imports have long made this sector the source of massive corruption and the fortunes of many oligarchs. \34\

\34\ Gas arbitrage has been the premier source of corrupt fortunes since Ukraine's independence. Politically connected individuals engaged in gas arbitrage by purchasing either domestically subsidized gas from the state or subsidized Russian gas at cut-rate prices and then selling it at market prices for enormous profits. Russia offered these subsidized imports for two reasons: (1) in order to gain influence over and corrupt Ukrainian officials so as to affect the direction of Ukrainian development and (2) in order to keep the Ukrainian domestic gas market underdeveloped and corrupt so as to preserve Ukrainian dependence on Russian gas supplies, which enables Russia to use gas as a geopolitical tool.

By ceasing the practice of hidden energy subsidies, Ukraine has dealt a major blow to the corrupt practice of gas arbitrage while also managing to halve the level of domestic gas consumption. The state oil and gas company, Naftogaz, has also undergone significant corporate governance reform, transforming it from one of the most unprofitable companies in Eastern Europe to the largest contributor to Ukraine's state budget. Finally, Ukraine is no longer purchasing gas from Russia and has diversified and significantly increased its gas imports from alternative sources as well as domestic gas production. \35\

\35\ Sushko and Prysyatkko ``Nations in Transit: Ukraine,'' 12.

3.4.3. Banking Reform

Banking reform has been moderately successful in Ukraine. According to a summary of the statements of Valeria Gontareva, a governor of the National Bank of Ukraine, at a recent Atlantic Council forum, ``100 percent of ownership in the Ukrainian banking system is accounted for-up from only 40 percent when she took over as governor in 2014.''

It continues, ``Ukraine undertook further reform in the banking sector to solve issues of insolvency and illiquidity, money laundering, and nontransparent ownership.''

Gontareva commented, ``One of the biggest prior problems of the Ukrainian banking sector was related-party lending,'' which she referred to as the ``oligarch banking model.'' \36\

\36\ Jack Gloss, ``Ukrainian Officials Tout Banking Sector Reforms,'' Atlantic Council, April 27, 2017, http://www.atlanticcouncil.org/blogs/new-atlanticist/ukrainian-officials-tout-banking-sector-reforms.

The same summary also notes the comments of Susan Schadler, senior fellow at the Centre for International Governance Innovation, who concluded, ``A cleaned-up banking system without concerns of non-performing loans or unclear ownership, and sustainable fiscal practices generally lead to macroeconomic stability . . . if Ukraine can keep those conditions in place, the risk of crisis is pretty low.'' \37\

\37\ Ibid.

3.4.4. Public Procurement Reform

Another anticorruption milestone has been the implementation of ``ProZorro,'' a web platform through which by law all public procurement in Ukraine must now occur. The platform hinders corruption in public procurement, resulting in significant savings for the state, and was lauded at the Public Procurement Awards as ``one of the best public sector procurement technologies in the world.'' \38\

\38\ Sushko and Prysyatkko ``Nations in Transit: Ukraine,''11.

The story of how this system came about is illuminating as to the potential ability of civil society to affect reform in Ukrainian society. Per Oksana Huss, a scholar of anti-corruption with a focus on Ukraine at the University of Duisburg-Essen, ``In Ukraine, the activists from the civil society developed ProZorro independently from the state. Because of a lack of public trust of the Government, during the test phase, the activists transferred the ownership license for ProZorro not to the state, but to the NGO Transparency International on a free-of-charge basis.'' \39\

3.4.5. Healthcare Reform

Healthcare has long been a neglected sector of reform in Ukraine and one rife with procurement corruption. However, a 2015 decision of the government to allow only the United Nations Development Program (UNDP), the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), and the international company Crown Agent to procure medications for the state led to a marked reduction in healthcare corruption related to the procurement of medications. \40\

In addition, a reform plan rolled out by the government on November 30, 2016 seeks to fundamentally transform the sector by making healthcare available to all Ukrainian citizens and funded via general taxation. \41\

\41\ ``Ukraine Reform Monitor: April 2017,'' Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, 6.

Acting Ukrainian Minister of Health, Ulana Suprun, also has been proactive about reforming and rooting out the massive corruption within the country's health care system. Melinda Haring, editor of the Atlantic Council's UkraineAlert blog, writes, ``Suprun and her team have designed a system that reforms palliative, emergency, and primary care simultaneously. The new National Health Service would be an independent body in the executive branch under the Cabinet of Ministers, much like the National Anticorruption Bureau of Ukraine.'' \42\

Unfortunately, the Rada did not pass these reforms. Suprun acknowledged this, stating, ``Our team worked effectively to prepare the reform, but there was no political will to continue this at the top level.'' \43\

3.4.6. Regulatory Reform

Ukraine has also achieved considerable economic deregulation via a package of reforms that came shortly after the Euromaidan. This has been demonstrated by a move on the World Bank's Ease of Doing Business Index from rank 112 of 189 in 2013 to a rank of 83 in 2015 and 80 in 2017. \44\ \45\ Greater deregulation has helped to counter the corruption that Ukraine's arcane regulatory codes made possible.

3.4.7. Police Reform

Among the first reforms in post-Euromaidan Ukraine was the law creating the National Police of Ukraine. \46\ This was accompanied by the recruiting of Georgia's Eka Zguladze, former Acting Interior Minister of Georgia, and former Georgian President Mikhail Saakashivili, as First Deputy Minister of Internal Affairs and Governor of Odessa, respectively, in hopes of carrying out police reforms similar to the dramatic ones that were carried out in Georgia. \47\ \48\ \49\ oth of these individuals have since left their Ukrainian government posts. Nevertheless, the Ukrainian police have undergone significant reform, with a smaller, more professional, better paid police force, who entered through a rigorous recruitment system.

non-discrimination. Authorities need to firmly counter violence against and scapegoating of Roma.''

Recently, Ukrainian Chief of Police Khatia Dekanoidze, another Georgian who formerly served in the Georgian government, stepped down. Carnegie's Ukraine Reform Monitor notes that her replacement was chosen via an open process with civil society and international expert participation.

As a practical matter, there is a shortage of qualified personnel. \50\ Finally, the public enthusiasm over patrol police reform has faded. The old police have remained in parallel and they often oppose the actions of the new patrol police. When the patrol police arrest a criminal, prosecutors let those with good connections out and sensitive cases rarely reach courts.

\50\ ``Ukraine Reform Monitor: April 2017,'' Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, 5.

3.4.8. Skepticism

Despite progress, Carnegie's April 2017 Ukraine Reform Monitor notes, ``The public perception is that corruption is still very high.'' \51\

\51\ ``Ukraine Reform Monitor: April 2017,'' Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, 2.

Last year, Pierre Vimont, senior fellow at Carnegie and former French Ambassador and European External Action Service official, commented, ``A vast majority of Ukrainians have little trust in the success of these reforms. Because of perceptions of corruption, the persistent power of oligarchs, incompetence, or a lack of real commitment, public support seems to be lagging behind.'' \52\

\52\ Pierre Vimont, ``Ukraine's Indispensable Economic Reforms'' The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, April 29, 2016, http://carnegieeurope.eu/2016/04/29/ukraine-s-indispensable-economic-reforms-pub-63490.

The total amounts of corrupt revenues have undoubtedly declined, but what people notice is how often they are asked for bribes, and that frequency does not appear to have declined. In particular, the judiciary continues to resist reform.

Oleh Havrylyshyn, an expert on Ukrainian economic policy, comments:

The lack of real action is most often discussed with reference to prosecutors bringing cases to the courts; it suffices to note that while corruption charges have been laid out, expert observers for the most part consider them low level, and not a single case exists against senior officials of the Yanukovych regime, nor against judges, nor the security personnel responsible for the killing of 100 demonstrators at the Euromaidan. \53\

\53\ Havrylyshyn, ``Reforms and Performance under Poroshenko. 2014-Present,'' 179.

Does this lack of demonstrable action mean that Ukraine is headed for a post-Orange Revolution \54\ return to corruption once Ukrainian people become fed up enough with the slow pace and return to political disillusionment? Havrylyshyn notes, ``So far there appears to be a somewhat uneasy consensus among observers that important areas of progress are visible, but on the whole not enough has been done.'' \55\

\54\ The Orange Revolution describes the peaceful demonstrations that occurred in Ukraine in reaction to the rigging of the 2004 presidential elections. Demonstrators successfully demanded a revote, which occurred with international observers present and led to the election of Viktor Yushchenko.

\55\ Ibid., 168.

Ultimately, it would seem that the reform currently taking place in Ukraine is having an effect, but must continue to be pushed hard. While there are pitfalls that could yet emerge, Ukraine is moving in the right direction. However, these potential pitfalls are plentiful and require constant vigilance on the part of the international community and Ukrainian civil society.

IV. HISTORICAL ANALYSIS

4.1. Kravchuk (1991-1994)

The early days of independent Ukraine were tumultuous. A laser focus on nation-building at the expense of all other state policy left organized crime, and therefore also corruption, to thrive.

When Ukraine regained its independence economic chaos reigned. Serhiy Kudelia, a scholar of Ukrainian politics, comments:

After the Soviet breakup, Ukraine emerged as a financially impoverished state with a factionalized political elite, rapacious entrepreneurial class, and a weak civil society. This situation created a favorable environment in which political and business actors, guided primarily by short-term interests of quick wealth accumulation, could prey on the state without limits. \56\

\56\ Serhiy Kudelia, ``Corruption in Ukraine: Perpetuum Mobile or the Endplay of Post-Soviet Elites?'' in Beyond the Euromaidan: Comparative Perspectives on Advancing Reform in Ukraine, ed. Henry E. Hale and Robert W. Orttung (Stanford: Stanford University Press, 2016), 68.

He calls this phase atomized corruption, arguing that it set the stage for the more structured oligarchic corruption that would come later. \57\

\57\ Ibid.

Corruption under President Leonid Kravchuk was notable for its free-for-all nature. Kudelia says, ``The multitude of actors involved in corrupt dealings with the state maintained their access to spoils largely through personal ties and commitment to share acquired wealth. The system of grand corruption, however, was decentralized and devoid of unified political purpose.'' \58\

\58\ Ibid.

However, grand corruption was not absent as petty corruption and organized crime thrived. Ukrainian Prime Minister Yukhym Zviahilsky (1993-94) indulged in what Anders Aslund, an expert on post-communist economic transitions at the Atlantic Council, calls ``unabashed rent seeking'' during this phase of history, as he and Kravchuk attempted to rebuild the command economy. \59\

\59\ Anders Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy (Washington DC: Peterson Institute for International Economics, 2009), 46.

Aslund notes, ``The only winners of this policy reversal (back to a command economy) were Zviahilskiy and his business partners. They made money on foreign trade arbitrage between low domestic prices of energy, metals, and chemicals and much higher world market prices. Since they controlled foreign trade licensing, they ensured that profits stayed in their circle.'' \60\

\60\ Ibid., 47.

Zviahilskiy was a pioneer of corruption. This method of trade arbitrage--buying goods at artificially low prices at home, selling them at global market prices abroad, and pocketing the difference--would become the main method through which the various Ukrainian oligarchs would make their fortunes, specifically through gas arbitrage. \61\ The other method of gas arbitrage, via the purchase and sale at global market prices of artificially cheap Russian gas imports originated at this stage as well. \62\ State credits and subsidies were also handed out. \63\

\61\ Anders Aslund, Ukraine: What Went Wrong and How to Fix It (Washington DC: Peterson Institute for International Economics, 2015), 186.

\62\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 55.

\63\ Ibid., 56.

To hear Aslund tell it:

In this way, a small group of privileged insiders usurped a huge share of GDP in the early years of transition and grew even stronger. Their wealth was not based on property but on arcane financial flows. For society, the result was untold social suffering and sharply rising income differentials. Ukraine reached a Gini coefficient \64\ of 47, about as much as Russia or the Latin American average. \65\

\64\ A Gini coefficient is a statistical measure of distribution, most often used as a way to measure inequality.

\65\ Ibid., 56.

Virtually no efforts at anticorruption were made during this period of Ukrainian history. The chaotic nature of the state, a single-minded focus on nation-building, and a lack of the formal institutions required to address organized crime left Ukraine helpless to confront the cancer of corruption growing in its midst. \66\

\66\ Louise Shelley, ``Organized Crime and corruption in Ukraine: Impediments to the Development of a Free Market Economy,'' Demokratizatsiya: The Journal of Post-Soviet Democratization 6, no. 2 (1998): 648.

Havrylyshyn claims that this interpretation is too generous to Kravchuk and that he really could have done more to kick-start the economy and combat corruption. ``History needs to revise its relatively benign interpretation of Kravchuk's Damascene conversion to the independence cause, as the nation builder who may have made a `small' mistake in giving too little priority to economic reforms,'' he says. \67\

\67\ Oleh Havrylyshyn, ``Ukraine: Greatest Hopes, Greatest Disappointments,'' in The Great Rebirth: Lessons from the Victory of Capitalism over Communism, ed. Anders Aslund and Simeon Djankov (Washington DC: Peterson Institute for International Economics, 2014), 172.

Louise Shelley, writing in 1999, comments on the ubiquity of organized crime early on in the country's history, ``The political costs of organized crime for Ukraine are staggering. The pervasive corruption and the penetration of organized crime into the political process are inhibiting the development of new laws needed to develop a democratic free market economy.'' \68\

\68\ Shelley, ``Organized Crime and corruption in Ukraine: Impediments to the Development of a Free Market Economy,'' 649.

Aslund concludes, ``Ukraine's fundamental problem is that it did not experience any clear break from the communist system. Its tardy transition to a market economy bred pervasive corruption by giving the old elite ample opportunities to transform their power into personal wealth.'' \69\ The failure to implement liberalizing reforms set the stage for institutionalized corruption that has proven remarkably resilient since. In a manner of speaking, Ukraine got itself into ``good governance debt'' and has been trying to get out since.

\69\ Aslund, Ukraine: What Went Wrong and How to Fix It, 40.

4.2. Kuchma (1994-2005)

The two terms of President Leonid Kuchma saw the largest paradigm shift in the history of corruption in Ukraine as the free-for-all of the Kravchuk days gave way to the rise of the oligarchs.

The era of Kuchma began with at least the recognition that corruption was a problem for the country and an internal enemy that would have to be defeated if Ukraine ever desired to be a prosperous democracy. The first push to fight corruption came in the form of a series of presidential decrees in 1994 that addressed a large variety of issues from taxation to deregulation in an effort to create a proper free market economy that, on its own, would help to battle corruption. \70\ Unfortunately, most of these decrees were later reversed.

\70\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 74.

The first major piece of legislation targeting corruption, the Law on Combating Corruption, ``was adopted in 1995 and detailed ways to control and punish corruption offenses for a relatively broad range of public officials.'' \71\ This law, like so many after it, proved toothless and unable to address the issues of pervasive grand corruption that had developed in Ukraine.

\71\ Kudelia, ``Corruption in Ukraine: Perpetuum Mobile or the Endplay of Post-Soviet Elites?'' 62.

Kuchma, like all presidents after him, paid lip service to combating corruption. As Huss writes:

Under Kuchma, the Law on Prevention of Corruption and the Concept on Fight against Corruption for 1998-2005 were introduced. Yushchenko developed the Concept of Overcoming Corruption ``On the Way Toward Integrity'' and formed the National Bureau of Investigation subordinated to the Prosecutor General. Yanukovych advanced the National Anticorruption Strategy for 2011-2015 and the National Anticorruption Committee. \72\

\72\ Huss, ``The Perpetual Cycle of Political Corruption in Ukraine and Post-Revolutionary Attempts to Break Through It,'' 320.

Despite an early reform drive in the first two years of Kuchma's administration, corruption remained much the same free-for-all that it had been under Kravchuk. This changed with the introduction of the 1996 president-centric constitution, which led to the rise of the oligarchs as Kuchma cultivated ``loyal business clans'' and developed ``clientelistic relationships with subordinate officials who had direct access to cash flows to the state budget and capable of diverting them for his political purposes.'' \73\ Kudelia calls this phase patronal corruption. \74\

\73\ Kudelia, ``Corruption in Ukraine: Perpetuum Mobile or the Endplay of Post-Soviet Elites?'' 69.
\74\ Kudelia, ``Corruption in Ukraine: Perpetuum Mobile or the Endplay of Post-Soviet Elites?'' 68.

This was also the era of another infamously corrupt Prime Minister, Pavlo Lazarenko. \75\ During his single year in office, Lazarenko built upon Zviahilskiy's legacy of grand corruption with massive fraud and money laundering, which involved ``defrauding the state budget of more than $200 million in the period from 1993 to 1997 through gas trading and other schemes,'' according to Kudelia. \76\

\75\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 95.
\76\ Kudelia, ``Corruption in Ukraine: Perpetuum Mobile or the Endplay of Post-Soviet Elites?'' 70.

Ultimately, Lazarenko was ousted by Kuchma after the latter realized that Lazarenko's stolen funds were to be used to finance Lazarenko's own presidential bid. \77\ Eventually, Lazarenko wound up in a Californian jail after he fled to the United States and was tried and found guilty for money laundering by a U.S. court.

\77\ Ibid., 70.

In 2000, Ukraine was at the brink of default. An alliance of oligarchs requested that Viktor Yushchenko, a young reformer and head of the national bank, be made Prime Minister. As a result, ``The first four months of 2000 saw the greatest reform drive that Ukraine had seen since the fall of 1994.'' \78\

\78\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 133.

Yushchenko was ousted by Kuchma after little more than a year after having been too successful for the taste of the oligarchs. Aslund comments, ``In April 2001 Yushchenko was ousted, but Ukraine had been reformed, and its rent-seeking society had been transformed into a productive market economy.'' \79\

\79\ Ibid., 128.

Productivity does not mean an end to corruption though, and rent-
seeking may have been transformed, but it did not stop.

In 2000, Prime Minister Yushchenko was the first to make a dent in Ukrainian corruption. His reforms targeted large swaths of the economy, with regulatory reform and privatizations that helped fight the state policies that made arbitrage possible. Most importantly, Yushchenko teamed up with Tymoshenko for the first time to take on rent-seeking in the energy sector.

Aslund comments that an important reason why these reforms stuck and the 1994 ones did not was that ``the 2000 reforms were largely legislated, while the 1994 reforms had been imposed through decrees.'' \80\

\80\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 150.

He writes, ``They (Yushchenko and Tymoshenko) had transformed the oligarchs from rent seekers to producers, and the producers needed a functioning market economy, although they did not mind tax privileges and some protectionism.'' \81\ Corruption in Ukraine had fundamentally transformed from an entity that continually threatened the existence of the state to one that had merged with it.

\81\ Ibid., 153.

Kuchma's loss of political legitimacy as a result of audio tapes implicating him in the murder of journalist Georgiy Gongadze, among other scandals and corrupt activity, neutered his power and brought on the era of Ukrainian corruption as it has largely existed, with many fluctuations, from 2001 to today: a grand political competition of self-serving oligarchs that precludes most reform.

By the end of the Kuchma era, the oligarchs had come to dominate the political as well as business worlds of Ukraine as Kuchma himself became a lame duck. Nonetheless, the situation had strangely improved since the beginning of the era thanks to a clever set of anticorruption reforms that made it in the interest of the oligarchs to not milk the corrupt system to the brink of financial ruin.

4.3. Yushchenko (2005-2010)

Corruption during the Yushchenko administration, which immediately followed the Orange Revolution, is best described by the word ``retrenchment.'' The hopes of the Orange Revolution came to a screeching halt and started moving in reverse, setting Ukraine up for its worst era of corruption yet. Despite a handful of victories such as the Law on Joint Stock Companies, this era ``restored the gridlock of the Kravchuk presidency.'' \82\

\82\ Ibid., 232.

While many instances of dubious political financing existed in the saga of the Orange Revolution, as in many Ukrainian elections, this triumph of the Ukrainian people was much more about the democratic development of Ukraine and its rejection of authoritarianism.

Despite initially high hopes for combating corruption and making necessary reforms during Yushchenko's presidency, those individuals that led the Orange Revolution, notably Yushchenko and Tymoshenko, quickly fell into infighting and enabled corruption to thrive once again.

The 2004 passage of the reactionary constitutional amendments, backed by oligarchs opposed to Yushchenko and the Orange Revolution had led to a significant neutering of presidential power. Combined with the implosion of the Orange Coalition, this resulted in what Kudelia calls ``party cartel'' corruption, which he claims continues in Ukraine to this day. \83\

\83\ Kudelia, ``Corruption in Ukraine: Perpetuum Mobile or the Endplay of Post-Soviet Elites?'' 68.

These ``party cartels'' are a clean break with ad hoc funding and individual-driven politics of the past. They function largely as bureaucratic rent collection and financing mechanisms to which oligarchs can contribute large sums anonymously and oftentimes still be in compliance with Ukrainian law.

In addition to being better financing mechanisms and remaining politically engaged year-round, ``party cartels serve as a reassurance mechanism to funders concerned with the durability of the politicians' commitments.'' Kudelia continues, ``The notorious practice of party leaders to offer positions on the parties' electoral lists in exchange for campaign contributions, which became widespread in the early 2000s, has been one of the most effective ways for them continuously raise funds.'' \84\

\84\ Ibid., 72.

Yushchenko's first Prime Minister, Tymoshenko, initiated a policy of re-privatization that largely targeted her political enemies. This was followed by the short-lived Yekhanurov government before Viktor Yanukovych, who had only recently been defeated in the 2005 presidential election, even after attempting to win via electoral fraud, became Prime Minister in 2006.

As Prime Minister, Yanukovych pursued a policy of corruption. Aslund writes, ``Corporate raiding was thriving as never before, and the government did nothing to stop it. Gas trade corruption was rampant, as was tax corruption. A constitutional court judge was caught red-handed accepting a bribe of $12 million. Yushchenko sacked her, but Yanukovych's side reinstated her.'' \85\

\85\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 219.

The Yanukovych government was eventually followed by a second Tymoshenko government, but the damage had been done. Yushchenko became an uncooperative, combative President who no longer engaged on reform.

If the Kuchma era led to the rise of the oligarchs as the dominant movers and shakers of the Ukrainian political system and therefore also of Ukrainian corruption, the Yushchenko era displayed for all to see the supposed futility of trying to defeat them. The disillusionment that resulted from the failure of Yushchenko and the Orange Coalition led to the most corrupt era in Ukraine's history following the election in 2010 of an unlikely candidate: Viktor Yanukovych.

4.4. Yanukovych (2010-2014)

Grand corruption on the grandest scale was the modus operandi of the Yanukovych administration. In particular, Yanukovych did everything he could to enrich his family, going to lengths that none before him had gone. This grand corruption was made much more easily attained by a reversion to the 1996 president-centric constitution of Kuchma after the Constitutional Court of Ukraine found the 2004 amendments limiting presidential power unconstitutional. Yanukovych was the first president to enjoy a steady durable majority in both parliament and government, and he quickly seized control over the Constitutional Court as well.

Aslund comments:

The Yanukovych family allegedly enriched itself during its four-year reign through energy subsidies, discretionary public procurement, embezzlement from the state, privileged privatization, fraudulent refunds of value-added tax to exporters, extortion, and corporate raiding (i.e., forcing a businessman to sell his enterprise involuntarily at a low price). \86\

\86\ Aslund, Ukraine: What Went Wrong and How to Fix It, 92.

He adds, ``Another source of corruption was outright theft from the government . . . the Yanukovych family mastered this art.'' \87\

\87\ Ibid., 94.

The system was being transformed from the productive, if corrupt, equilibrium that had been established by the 2000 Yushchenko reforms back into the rent-seeking Kuchma era. Had this kept up, the state would have been in danger of eating itself alive, as it had nearly done in the past. Indeed, Aslund writes, ``In its last year, the Yanukovych regime grew increasingly surreal. The president concentrated power and wealth to an ever smaller group of family and friends, while doing nothing to satisfy his population. Ukraine's already fragile institutions were further undermined.'' \88\

\88\ Ibid., 101.

The Euromaidan was a protest movement that started as a demonstration against corruption in as much as it was a protest against Yanukovych's pulling out at the last second of the European Union Association Agreement. Unlike the 2004 Orange Revolution, which was bloodless and peaceful, Euromaidan saw over a 100 fatalities.

4.5. Poroshenko (2014-Present)

Shortly following Yanukovych's flight to Russia, Russia unilaterally annexed Crimea and initiated the conflict in the Eastern Donbas through a combination of backing for pro-Russia militant forces in Ukraine and an invasion by Russian military personnel. Amid this aggression, Ukraine held presidential elections, which led to Petro Poroshenko becoming president of Ukraine.

For the first time in the history of Ukraine, it looks as though reducing the power of oligarchs significantly enough to render them nothing more than influential businessmen may be within sight. Aslund comments, ``The oligarchs have suffered considerable damage to their assets in the war-torn areas of Ukraine, rendering them weak. The crisis offers a chance to finally break their disproportionate influence over the state for good.'' \89\

\89\ Aslund, Ukraine: What Went Wrong and How to Fix It, 23.

The efforts to combat corruption in post-Euromaidan Ukraine have been many, although some have criticized that they have been too slow. Sympathetic commentators have argued that it is difficult to fight corruption when a country is being invaded by Russia. However, Havrylyshyn points out that other commentators argue, ``Instead of pointing to the war as an excuse for slow reforms, one should, on the contrary, see the war as further reason to move as quickly as possible.'' \90\

\90\ Havrylyshyn, ``Reforms and Performance under Poroshenko. 2014-Present,'' 182.

V. MAIN FACTORS BEHIND THE PERSISTENCE OF CORRUPTION IN UKRAINE

Even though the persistence of corruption in Ukraine has been remarkable, it by no means is insurmountable. The following factors are the three most important behind the persistence of corruption in Ukraine:

<bullet> The oligarchs represent the single most significant factor behind the persistence of corruption in Ukraine.

<bullet> Incomplete economic liberalization enabled the consolidation of power for the early oligarchs.

<bullet> Gas arbitrage. Although other sectors have been the source of rampant corruption in Ukraine, nothing has engendered corruption quite like the gas trade, which has also offered Russia a back door to political influence in Ukraine. Luckily, much has already been done in post-Euromaidan Ukraine to combat corruption in this sector.

5.1. The Oligarchs

Ukrainian oligarchs have successfully managed to block the creation of parties that could have promoted reforms that would have been in the interest of all Ukrainian citizens.

Kuzio writes, ``Oligarchs prevent the emergence of a level playing field in politics by blocking the entrance of genuine political parties into the political arena.'' \91\ Every party is a piece in the oligarchs ``politics-as-business'' and reliant on oligarchs for the funding necessary to compete. Thereby, parties become indebted to oligarchs and support their political preferences, which are non-ideological and tolerant of corruption. This influence peddling is facilitated by Ukraine's lack of constraints on political donations.

\91\ Kuzio, ``Oligarchs, the Partial Reform Equilibrium, and the Euromaidan Revolution,'' 181.

Moreover, Ukraine's ``winner-take-all'' political system makes it possible for oligarchs to prevent the emergence of any truly national force that could crack down on corrupt practices.

Oligarchic interest groups have promoted politicians and parties of all kinds who have focused solely on securing clear regional voting bases, and pitting different segments of Ukrainian society against each other, by exploiting the fault lines in Ukrainian identity and historical memory for their own political and economic purposes. Kuzio comments, ``Their funding of pro-Western political forces (for example) should not be misunderstood as backing reforms, fighting corruption, or promoting European integration, but instead understood as opportunism and survival tactics.'' \92\

\92\ Kuzio, ``Oligarchs, the Partial Reform Equilibrium, and the Euromaidan Revolution,'' 187.

For example, a pro-Russian campaign targeting primarily southeastern Ukrainian citizens, mainly Russian-speaking and ethnic Russian, led to Kuchma's first electoral win in 1994. Only five years later-once his oligarch supporters' personal, political, and economic calculations required a change in political orientation-he managed to campaign and win elections on a pro-Western, ethnic Ukrainian platform targeting mostly western Ukrainians, a traditionally more nationalist voting base.

While Presidents Yushchenko and Yanukovych did not flip-flop on their core constituencies, both built their presidential campaigns, and later governed, based on the divisions of identity in Ukrainian society, instead of attempting to build real national parties. Kuzio concludes, ``The key to Ukraine breaking free of the partial reform equilibrium and entering the path of European integration is the political will to demonopolize Ukraine's economy, politics, and media by reducing the power of the oligarchs and separating business and politics.'' \93\

\93\ Kuzio, ``Oligarchs, the Partial Reform Equilibrium, and the Euromaidan Revolution,'' 196.

Now is the moment for Ukraine to strike. The general weakness of the oligarchs in the post-Euromaidan world, exemplified by Rinat Akhmetov's tremendous financial losses, has led to corruption retreating to the Rada, where parliamentary immunity protects against, or at least delays, prosecution and grey cardinals finance parliamentary factions through corrupt funds in exchange for loyalty guarantees. \94\ Until this holdout is tackled, business and politics will not be separate in Ukraine.

\94\ ``Rinat Akhmetov,'' Forbes, June 25, 2017, https://www.forbes.com/profile/rinat-akhmetov/ (accessed June 25, 2017).

5.2. Incomplete Economic Liberalization

A major reason that Ukraine continues to lag behind other post-Soviet states, and post-communist states more generally, is Ukraine's lack of reforms early on. The years under Kravchuk exacerbated Soviet-era corruption and led to the development of institutionalized corruption in the country that only became worse over time.

This failure to complete economic liberalization is exacerbated by the crisis situation that Ukraine currently finds itself in. If the necessity of reforms was not clear enough, the war in the eastern Donbas and Crimea have further amplified the need to address Ukraine's institutionalized corruption because Ukraine will be more successfully able to confront those problems with its internal house in order.

5.3. Gas Arbitrage

No single corrupt activity has been more destructive to Ukraine than the gas trade. It has built more fortunes of more oligarchs than any other. It is arguably more vital to the life of every Ukrainian citizen than any other. Most importantly, it is the only one that has been traded at such high volumes with Russia, almost always at an absurd discount, in its efforts to export corruption into Ukraine.

By and large, Russia has succeeded. Oleh Havrylyshyn writes, ``In Ukraine, the very low price of imported gas . . . not only fed the rents of gas oligarchs, but induced related corruption with payoffs to politicians.'' \95\

\95\ Oleh Havrylyshyn, ``Controlling Corruption: The Elusive Golden Fleece?'' in The Political Economy of Independent Ukraine, part of the series Studies in Economic Transition, ed. Jens Holscher and Horst Tomann (London: Palgrave Macmillan, 2017), 266.

Aslund comments, ``Gazprom should be treated as an organized crime syndicate with which no links are advisable.'' \96\ He notes that Ukraine is not the only country that Russia has implemented this policy against. ``Russia's oil transit through Latvia and Lithuania was the main source of high-level corruption in those two countries, and its end greatly helped both countries to check corruption.'' \97\

\96\ Aslund, Ukraine: What Went Wrong and How to Fix It, 203.
\97\ Ibid., 204.

Local gas subsidies and the subsidized gas that is offered by Russia has hobbled the development of the local energy sector and enabled the gas arbitrage that has been taken advantage of time and again throughout Ukraine's history. The dependence of the oligarchs on subsidized gas to continue growing their fortunes provides a strong incentive for them to keep the energy sector underdeveloped and corrupt. This also enables Russia to use its gas monopoly as a geopolitical tool to demand concessions when necessary.

Ukraine's recent energy sector reforms are extremely welcome and should be lauded. They speak to the ability of Ukraine to implement reform successfully. Although those who have built their fortunes through gas arbitrage will be able to seek rents elsewhere, these reforms are a serious blow to impunity, especially given the Russia connection. Nonetheless, more must be done to create a competitive energy sector.

VI. RECOMMENDATIONS

Three main recommendations follow from this analysis. These are aimed at realizing a democratic and prosperous Ukraine with robust public institutions and rule of law. All policy leaders and activists involved in Ukraine's fight against corruption can play a part in implementation, monitoring, or advocacy, depending on how they are positioned. Taken together, these make up the three most important pieces to defeating corruption in Ukraine.

<bullet> Ukraine must implement remaining reforms. Ultimately, the oligarchs must come to realize that the rule of law is favorable to them in the long run and cease corrupt political manipulation, becoming productive private sector businessmen. This is sure to be an exceptionally difficult and complicated process.

<bullet> Ukraine must safeguard and take advantage of its civil society, including independent media. Anything further that can be done to increase their effectiveness should be. Nothing should be done to hinder them.

<bullet> The international community, and specifically the United States, the EU, and the international organizations that are a part of the Ukrainian struggle against corruption, should keep up the pressure and assistance.

In general, those that wish to see successful reform in Ukraine should keep in mind the lessons of Georgia, a country that successfully saw through its catch-up reforms. Havrylyshyn writes, ``[Georgia] achieved the same rapid results in reforms and performance as the [central European and the Baltic countries] CEB, but did so in an environment of deeply entrenched rent-seekers, those with vested interests, their political pawns and pervasive corruption, perhaps worse than Ukraine.'' \98\

\98\ Oleh Havrylyshyn, ``Controlling Corruption: The Elusive Golden Fleece?'' 275.

He goes on to summarize some of the World Bank's lessons for combating corruption that it derived from the Georgian case:

<bullet> Exercise strong political will

<bullet> Establish credibility early

<bullet> Launch a frontal assault

<bullet> Attract new staff

<bullet> Limit the role of the state

<bullet> Adopt unconventional methods

<bullet> Develop a unity of purpose and coordinate

<bullet> Tailor international experience to local conditions

<bullet> Harness digital technology \99\

\99\ Ibid., 272.

6.1. Remaining Reforms

Sector-based reforms should be tackled in whatever order possible, simultaneously when possible or one-at-a-time as necessary. The most important thing is for the international community and Ukrainian civil society including independent media to keep a close watch for backsliding and sound the alarm at any deviations. Another danger that should be considered is the tendency of reforms to be enacted, but not implemented. Continued monitoring is necessary following the passage of any given reform. If Ukrainian officials know they will not get away with cheating, they may not try to. \100\

\100\ Antonidis et al., ``Strengthening Ukraine: Policy Recommendations for the New Administration,'' 7.

6.1.1. Judicial Reform

The judiciary is far and away the sector most in need of reform in Ukraine in order to successfully combat corruption. While the new anticorruption investigation architecture is impressive and is working, it will amount to little if cases continually come before corrupt judges.

Although constitutional amendments and a new legislative framework have been approved by the Rada that could eventually lead to the necessary reforms, they must be implemented properly. \101\

\101\ Sushko and Prysyatkko ``Nations in Transit: Ukraine,'' 3.

These amendments will overhaul the Supreme Court with new judicial appointments based on an open and transparent selection process. They will also streamline lower courts and establish a Citizens' Integrity Council, to consist of 20 NGO representatives. This Council will oversee judges and communicate to the Higher Qualification Committee of Judges regarding the extent to which judges are upholding professional standards. This will hopefully result in speedier and more transparent trials. \102\

\102\ Ibid., 10

A new ``High Council of Justice'' has also been formed to monitor the judiciary, with the power to submit judicial appointments to the President and pursue disciplinary action, including dismissal. Previously, only the Rada could dismiss judges, resulting in a high level of political rather than professional dismissals. This Council can also void judicial immunity, enabling arrest and prosecution of judges thought to be corrupt. However, the President continues to influence decisions with regard to transferring and promoting judges. This power should also be ceded to the Council so as to guarantee the independence of the judiciary. \103\

\103\ Antonidis et al., ``Strengthening Ukraine: Policy Recommendations for the New Administration,'' 8.

The new legal framework also calls for the establishment of an anticorruption court, a missing link of the anticorruption architecture, where NABU's cases of grand corruption can be tried independent of the standard, unreformed judiciary itself mired in corruption until such a time as the standard judiciary is fully reformed.

This report strongly recommends that this be the next large civil society and international community push. The IMF and the EU are also strongly in favor; establishment of an anticorruption court is a structural benchmark included in the IMF's most recent review. \104\ A selection procedure for judges that includes international involvement would be a central part of this process.

\104\ International Monetary Fund, European Department, ``2016 Article IV Consultation and third review under the Extended Arrangement, Requests for a Waiver of Non-Observance of a Performance Criterion, Waiver of Applicability, Rephasing of Access and Financing Assurances Review--Press Release; Staff Report; and Statement by the Executive Director for Ukraine,'' International Monetary Fund, p. 29.

The proper implementation of this new judicial framework will be fought every step of the way by the oligarchs. Civil society and the international community must remain vigilant in their push to see that it is implemented to the highest possible standards.

There are a handful of practical measures that can also be taken in addition to pursuing a new judicial framework to combat corruption in the judiciary. One such measure is increasing judicial wages. Much like the abysmal wages for police that have led to petty corruption in the past, low wages for judges make them particularly vulnerable to bribes. \105\ Relatedly, judges have been included in e-declarations processes and have come under investigation, which is a welcome development. \106\ An even more potent combination of carrots and sticks should be pursued. In addition, more judges and prosecutors need to be replaced.

\105\ Antonidis et al., ``Strengthening Ukraine: Policy Recommendations for the New Administration,'' 9.

\106\ Natalia Zinets, ``Fighting corruption, Ukraine starts to judge its judges,'' Reuters, May 25, 2017, http://www.reuters.com/article/us-ukraine-corruption-insight-idUSKBN18L0HC.

The ``Strengthening Ukraine'' report of the Bush School and U.S.-Ukraine Foundation also recommend judicial exchanges. These exchanges would enable Ukrainian and European legal officials to better understand one another's judiciary with the goal of bringing Ukrainian judicial standards more in line with the European ones. \107\

Despite steps forward, necessary reforms remain in the energy sector. While the reduction in energy subsidies, the corporate governance reform of Naftogaz, the cessation of purchases from Russia, the increase of gas imports from the rest of Europe, and the increase of domestic gas production is a start, what is needed now is the privatization of the energy sector. Regional energy distribution companies must be the targets of privatization efforts. \108\ Ukraine is on its way to accomplishing this thanks to the signing of the recent electricity market law. \109\ Now, this law, accompanied by deregulation, must be successfully implemented.

\108\ IMF, ``2016 Article IV Consultation and third review under the Extended Arrangement, Requests for a Waiver of Non-Observance of a Performance Criterion, Waiver of Applicability, Rephasing of Access and Financing Assurances Review--Press Release; Staff Report; and Statement by the Executive Director for Ukraine,'' p. 95

\109\ Interfax-Ukraine, ``Law on electricity market enters force,'' Kyiv Post, June 12, 2017, https://www.kyivpost.com/ukraine-politics/law-electricity-market-enters-force.html.

In addition, corporate governance reform and the introduction of ever greater transparency must continue and should include areas like procurement and transfer pricing. Chow argues, ``The aim should be to break up state-owned energy monopolies in order to promote competition and market efficiency, release the value of state assets, and remove the temptation for special interest groups to control energy franchises. It is not just the management, but the business model of Ukraine's energy sector that must change.''

Finally, regulations governing the taxation of independent companies should be simplified to enable the development of a competitive and independent market. \110\ While the introduction of corporate governance structures to Naftogaz as part of reforming the company was a good start, the unbundling of former Soviet bureaucratic behemoths must continue. Additionally, the exploration of oil and gas fields is still governed by outdated regulations that need to be revised in order to boost domestic gas production. \111\

\110\ This should occur not only in the energy sector, but in the private sector as a whole and especially with regard to small and medium-sized, i.e. non-oligarchic, enterprises (SMEs). Non-oligarchic businesses are harmed by corruption unlike their oligarchic brethren and have interests that line up with those of civil society and the international community. They could potentially become a powerful voice in advocating for reforms.

\111\ Edward Chow, ``The High Stakes of Ukraine's Energy Reforms,'' The American Interest, October 21, 2016, https://www.the-american-interest.com/2016/10/21/the-high-stakes-of-ukraines-energy-reforms/.

Supporting the development of domestic production should be a key priority as, once Ukraine's domestic energy production is no longer captured by corrupt interests, it could achieve energy independence. ``The problem is not geology, but the absence of a stable and attractive business climate for non-politically connected and honest investors,'' argues Chow. \112\

\112\ Ibid.

6.1.3. Safeguarding and Further Empowering the Anticorruption Architecture

NABU's independence and jurisdiction over all high-profile corruption cases in Ukraine should be preserved. NABU's external audit commission, which can provide the grounds to dismiss the head of NABU, should also be selected via transparent and accountable processes and consist of independent individuals with impeccable reputations and experience in investigations in international corruption cases.

To promote transparency and curtail the ability of the oligarchs to manipulate Ukrainian politics, \113\ NABU should be strengthened to more effectively perform its investigative duties. Besides being granted the authority to independently wiretap, NABU should also be empowered to monitor donations to parties and politicians. Accompanying reforms that establish limitations and regulations on political donations would be needed, and the party financing law that was passed in July 2016, but has not been enforced, must be implemented. \114\

\113\ Antonidis et al., ``Strengthening Ukraine: Policy Recommendations for the New Administration,'' 6.

\114\ Kostanyan, ``Ukraine's unimplemented anti-corruption reform,'' 3.

NAPC's admirable work in e-declaration can also be improved by establishing verification mechanisms for e-declaration.

Although the Ukrainian banking system has seen significant reform and is not as rife with corruption as it was in 2014, experts agree it still has a long way to go. \115\ The ``Strengthening Ukraine'' report of the Bush School and the U.S.-Ukraine Foundation recommend consolidation and full transparency as ways to further combat corruption in the banking sector. These reforms will make Ukraine's banks easier to monitor, enabling the government to ensure that they are complying with the law. Given the centrality of a corrupt banking sector to the wealth of the oligarchs, this sector will be especially difficult to reform. \116\

\115\ Gloss, ``Ukrainian Officials Tout Banking Sector Reforms.''
\116\ Antonidis et al., ``Strengthening Ukraine: Policy Recommendations for the New Administration,'' 14.

According to Francis Malige, the managing director for Eastern Europe and the Caucasus of the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the most important four building blocks of any future banking reform are ``good conditions facilitating lending from banks which lower interest rates and shift lending to the real economy, rather than to the government; the development of capital markets; land reform that would allow banks to accept land as collateral; and privatization in the banking sector.'' \117\

\117\ Gloss, ``Ukrainian Officials Tout Banking Sector Reforms.''

6.1.5. Limit Parliamentary Immunity

Parliamentary immunity should be carefully limited so that it is no longer a form of de facto blanket immunity. Ranking Helsinki Commission Senator Cardin has worked to limit parliamentary immunity in the OSCE region.

Most notably, this included the adoption by the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly (OSCE PA) of a resolution proposed by Senator Cardin calling for the limiting of parliamentary immunity, entitled ``Resolution on Limiting Immunity for Parliamentarians in Order to Strengthen Good Governance, Public Integrity and the Rule of Law.'' \118\ The OSCE PA is an independent international institution related to, but not part of the intergovernmental OSCE made up of parliamentary delegations from the 57 participating States of the OSCE, which every year gather in an annual session to pass resolutions based on majority votes. \119\

6.2. Civil Society Including Independent Media

The Ukrainian people have proven now on three different occasions--as protesters during the Orange Revolution and the Euromaidan, and as volunteers assisting troops fighting Russian aggression--that their organizational capacity and desire for democracy and prosperity is greater than the forces that would bankrupt their country.

Civil society has played a fundamental role in Ukraine's democratic transition, and remains a critical element of combating corruption. It is the first to the scene, pushes for change, and, ultimately, sees to it that changes stick. The independent media is no different. Ukrainian journalists played a critical role in the Euromaidan Revolution and continue to play an essential role as corruption watchdogs to this day.

The big question then is how to safeguard and take advantage of these comparative advantages of Ukraine's. First, do no harm. Civil society and especially independent media should continue with their work without the introduction of any additional constraints. It is largely thanks to them that Ukraine remains politically competitive and that the country has not long since fallen to the siren song of authoritarianism. Moreover, their ability to uncover corruption is unparalleled. Who knows where Ukraine would be today without publications such as Ukrainska Pravda and Dzerkalo Tyzhnia. \120\

\120\ Aslund, Ukraine: What Went Wrong and How to Fix It, 97.

Unfortunately, harm is being done. A recent law requires civil society activists who are working in anticorruption to complete e-declarations similar to those that officials are now required to complete in an attempt to burden them needlessly. \121\ In addition, a recent article by Josh Cohen also explains how the SBU is harassing civil society activists on behalf of oligarchs. In order to counter this harassment, the SBU should be reformed in line with NATO standards. Any harm to civil society must be condemned and prevented such that civil society can do its job and continue to push for reforms. \122\ That said, it is also a demonstration of the fear that oligarchs have for civil society. Oligarchs would not be working so hard to stop Ukraine's civil society if they were not profoundly active and effective.

In her piece ``Corruption in Ukraine in Comparative Perspective,'' Daphne Athanasouli, a scholar of corruption at the University of Derby, recognizes Ukraine's civil society including independent media as a comparative advantage that it has to combat corruption.

She recommends improving upon this advantage further through the introduction of greater e-government, essentially giving Ukraine's civil society including independent media a megaphone. She comments, ``Progress in e-government can decrease corruption, rent-seeking, and regulatory capture in Ukraine by strengthening the accountability of public officials and politicians.'' \123\

\123\ Daphne Athanasouli, ``Corruption in Ukraine in Comparative Perspective,'' in Beyond the Euromaidan: Comparative Perspectives on Advancing Reform in Ukraine, ed. Henry E. Hale and Robert W. Orttung

(Stanford: Stanford University Press, 2016), 80-105.

She adds, ``E-government can also reduce the time of interaction with public officials and their discretionary power, thereby reducing administrative corruption.'' \124\ Finally, she concludes, ``The development of e-government and access to online information about government services help increase accountability and tackle petty corruption by limiting the discretionary power of government officials and public servants.'' \125\

\124\ Ibid., 98.
\125\ Ibid., 100.

Already, Ukraine has made some progress here. Athanasouli writes:

In 2012, Ukraine endorsed a new Open Government Plan (OGP) with the active participation of civil society organizations and the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) office in Ukraine. The OGP included initiatives to improve the provision of public services to citizens and the introduction of administrative services in digital format by the end of 2014. Many of these reforms were successful. \126\

\126\ Ibid., 99.

A second method to empower civil society including independent media recommended by Athanasouli is increasing press freedom. She writes, ``An environment that can also support free media is pivotal for (combating corruption) since it helps support an anticorruption agenda, expose corrupt practices, and exert pressure on the government for reforms.'' \127\ While even during Yanukovych's presidency, when Ukraine was threatened by an unfree media environment, independent publications stepped up to fill the void, Athanasouli is correct when she states, ``Oligarchs continue to own the main television networks and they determine the content of their broadcasts.'' \128\

\127\ Ibid., 100.
\128\ Ibid., 100.

One need look no further than Ukraine's President, Petro Poroshenko, owner of Kanal 5, to find an example. Although Poroshenko has largely allowed Kanal 5 to be a home for real journalists, this has not been the case for much other media in Ukraine, and it remains a significant issue. Dunja Mijatovic, former Representative for the Freedom of the Media of the OSCE, has commented, ``If Mr. Poroshenko intends to sell his assets, in my view, his TV station should be the first to go.'' \129\

\129\ Simon Shuster, ``Ukraine's New Leader Clings to His TV Channel,'' Time, May 29, 2014, http://time.com/137020/ukraine-petro-poroshenko-channel-5/.

Ukraine's impressive independent media will not evolve into an impressive free media until this oligarchical stranglehold on the main television networks has been broken. Yet, ``Following the Euromaidan revolution, the media situation improved considerably.'' \130\ As with other reforms relating to the oligarchs, now is the time to deal the knockout punch.

\130\ Athanasouli, ``Corruption in Ukraine in Comparative Perspective,''100.

Athanasouli writes, ``The citizens and the media can act as monitoring agents against both administrative and grand corruption, promote anticorruption reforms and the work of law enforcement agencies, and increase political accountability by tracking the progress of reforms and exposing mischief or delays in the implementation of specific measures.'' \131\ This report could not agree more.

\131\ Ibid., 101.

The reality in Ukraine is that it will come down to ``citizens and the media'' to make reforms happen and keep them in place. This is the Ukrainian people's greatest test, but they need not go it alone. The international community should push the Ukrainian state as hard as it can too and offer as much assistance as is responsible to assist Ukraine in realizing a democratic and prosperous future.

6.3. The International Community

External pressure was critical to the successful implementation of the all-important 2000 Prime Minister Yushchenko reforms. Aslund describes the influence of external pressure on these reforms:

External pressure was important. The IMF defined the threat of external default and made the rulers ware of the dangers. Paradoxically, its pressure was stronger when it provided no credit. The West strongly influenced the government's ideas, notably the German advisory group, but also the IMF and the World Bank. Ukrainian officials were anxious to be respected by the West and Yushchenko greatly benefited domestically from being considered so highly in the West. \132\

\132\ Aslund, How Ukraine Became a Market Economy and Democracy, 149.

Then, as now, Ukraine is in a position where it needs the West more than ever, having cut many ties with Russia. Many western-educated Ukrainians are in Ukrainian government and civil society and Ukraine is seen in the foreign policy of western countries as the litmus test for democracy and anticorruption in an era where both are falling out of favor globally.

It is imperative that the international community not become frustrated with the pace of reform in Ukraine. The historical analysis of this report provides insight into the resilience of the oligarchs. Ultimately, the international community, along with Ukrainian civil society, will have to show that it is even more resilient. As such, the international community should prepare itself to be invested in Ukraine for the long term, so as to avoid past mistakes.

6.3.1. The IMF

The IMF is the international organization with which Ukraine has had the most interaction. After a board meeting on April 3, 2017, the IMF decided to proceed with a $1 billion loan payment to Ukraine, the fourth installment of a $17.5 billion aid-for-reform program spanning four years. Financial support for the program is being released in installments contingent upon progress in reforms in the country.

When the IMF board initially adopted the stabilization program on March 11, 2015, it decided to issue a credit of $5 billion immediately. The green-lighting of additional funding in April surprised many experts, as the Ukrainian government has struggled to implement many of the structural reform conditions outlined for the fourth tranche, only meeting five out of fourteen conditions from the agreement. In the press release that accompanied the most recent disbursement, the IMF commented on the successes of implemented macroeconomic policies, while calling for additional anticorruption efforts. \133\

\133\ International Monetary Fund, ``IMF Executive Board Concludes 2016 Article IV Consultation and Completes Third Review of Ukraine's EFF, Approving US$1.00 Billion Disbursement,'' International Monetary Fund, April 3, 2017, https://www.imf.org/en/News/Articles/2017/04/03/pr17111-imf-executive-board-concludes-2016-article-iv-consultation-and-completes-third-review (accessed June 18, 2017).

Ukraine has received funding totaling $8.8 billion under the program. Aslund credits these loans with stabilizing exchange rates and containing inflation, as the Ukrainian economy outperformed expectations when finishing 2016 with a budget deficit at only 2.3 percent. \134\ Furthermore, he credits the IMF program for the creation of NABU, as the corruption bureau was created at the behest of the reform program. The IMF is applying pressure for the establishment of a Ukrainian anticorruption court.

\134\ Anders Aslund, ``Why Does the IMF Keep Funding Ukraine?'' Atlantic Council, April 11, 2017, http://www.atlanticcouncil.org/blogs/ukrainealert/why-does-the-imf-keep-funding-ukraine.

While additional structural conditions need to be implemented, economic reforms have proven easier to enact than judicial reforms, where opposition from private interests blocks attempts to strengthen and enforce anticorruption frameworks. \135\

6.3.2. The United States

The United States has shown and must continue to show its support for the territorial integrity as well as the ongoing reform process in Ukraine. It continues to put pressure on as well as support Ukraine both symbolically and via financial, security, and technical assistance. There are multiple bills in the 115th Congress that could increase or change the nature of this aid. USAID and Department of State International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs Initiatives are highly active in Ukraine and provide assistance, financial and otherwise, to a variety of programs.

6.3.3. The EU

The Euromaidan advocated for a European direction for the country and the goal remains the eventual accession of Ukraine to the EU. The EU has an active assistance program within Ukraine. In addition, a new Danish-led initiative focused on combating corruption has become active on Ukrainian issues. The recent realization of the EU-Ukraine visa-free travel agreement was a significant achievement for Ukraine. \136\

\136\ Diane Francis, ``It Was a Very Good Spring for Ukraine,'' Atlantic Council, June 7, 2017, http://www.atlanticcouncil.org/blogs/ukrainealert/it-was-a-very-good-spring-for-ukraine.

VII. CONCLUSION

The persistence of corruption in Ukraine can be explained by the influence of the oligarchs, who were enabled early on by the incomplete economic liberalization of the country and the corrupt gas trade, which historically was the most corrupt sector of the Ukrainian economy and deeply influenced by Russia. The oligarchs' capture of the state structure has proven exceptionally resilient; civil society and the international community must prove that they are more resilient.

Indeed, Ukraine's civil society including independent media is and will continue to be the most central piece of the struggle against corruption in Ukraine. As the Nations in Transit 2017 Report on Ukraine states, ``Civil society remains the strongest element in Ukraine's democratic transition.'' \137\ The international community and the Ukrainian state should do everything it can to improve the capacity of civil society including independent media to hold politicians' feet to the fire.

\137\ Sushko and Prysyatkko, ``Nations in Transit: Ukraine,'' 7.

Vested interests will do everything in their power to prevent meaningful reform in Ukraine. It is bound to be an arduous battle, but it will be well worth it if Ukraine is finally able to defeat its internal enemy.

Allies of the outgoing Prime Minister claim he was the victim of a dastardly plot. No, don’t let him rewrite history. Boris Johnson was the architect of his own downfall.

Brexiteers made numerous mistakes on Northern Ireland. But in seeking to trap the Brits via the Protocol, Brussels put its fingers in the mangle of Northern Ireland politics. The EU finds itself in a terrible mess. It should compromise, though presumably it won't.

Twenty five years since New Labour's 1997 landslide, the Tories are once again risking a kicking. At least under Major there had been a coherent programme of reform. This time good government has broken down.

We, the Heads of State and Government of the 30 NATO Allies, have met today to address Russia’s aggression against Ukraine, the gravest threat to Euro-Atlantic security in decades. Russia’s war against Ukraine has shattered peace in Europe and is causing enormous human suffering and destruction.

We condemn Russia’s invasion of Ukraine in the strongest possible terms. We call on President Putin to immediately stop this war and withdraw military forces from Ukraine, and call on Belarus to end its complicity, in line with the Aggression Against Ukraine Resolution adopted at the UN General Assembly of 2 March 2022. Russia should comply with the 16 March ruling by the UN International Court of Justice and immediately suspend military operations. Russia’s attack on Ukraine threatens global security. Its assault on international norms makes the world less safe. President Putin’s escalatory rhetoric is irresponsible and destabilizing.

Ukrainians have inspired the world with heroic resistance to Russia’s brutal war of conquest. We strongly condemn Russia’s devastating attacks on civilians, including women, children, and persons in vulnerable situations. We will work with the rest of the international community to hold accountable those responsible for violations of humanitarian and international law, including war crimes. We are deeply concerned about the increased risk of sexual violence and human trafficking. We urge Russia to allow rapid, safe, and unhindered humanitarian access and safe passage for civilians, and to allow for humanitarian aid to be delivered to Mariupol and other besieged cities. We also condemn attacks against civilian infrastructure, including those endangering nuclear power plants. We will continue to counter Russia’s lies about its attack on Ukraine and expose fabricated narratives or manufactured “false flag” operations to prepare the ground for further escalation, including against the civilian population of Ukraine. Any use by Russia of a chemical or biological weapon would be unacceptable and result in severe consequences.

Russia needs to show it is serious about negotiations by immediately implementing a ceasefire. We call on Russia to engage constructively in credible negotiations with Ukraine to achieve concrete results, starting with a sustainable ceasefire and moving towards a complete withdrawal of its troops from Ukrainian territory. Russia’s continuing aggression while discussions are taking place is deplorable. We support Ukraine’s efforts to achieve peace, and those undertaken diplomatically by Allies to weigh in on Russia to end the war and relieve human suffering.

We stand in full solidarity with President Zelenskyy, the government of Ukraine, and with the brave Ukrainian citizens who are defending their homeland. We honour all those killed, injured, and displaced by Russia’s aggression, as well as their families. We reaffirm our unwavering support for the independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity of Ukraine within its internationally recognized borders extending to its territorial waters.

Ukraine has a fundamental right to self-defence under the United Nations Charter.   Since 2014, we have provided extensive support to Ukraine’s ability to exercise that right. We have trained Ukraine’s armed forces, strengthening their military capabilities and capacities and enhancing their resilience. NATO Allies have stepped up their support and will continue to provide further political and practical support to Ukraine as it continues to defend itself. NATO Allies will also continue to provide assistance in such areas as cybersecurity and protection against threats of a chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear nature. NATO Allies also provide extensive humanitarian support and are hosting millions of refugees. Foreign Ministers will discuss further our support to Ukraine when they meet in April.

We are united in our resolve to counter Russia’s attempts to destroy the foundations of international security and stability. We are holding Russia and Belarus to account. Massive sanctions and heavy political costs have been imposed on Russia in order to bring an end to this war. We remain determined to maintain coordinated international pressure on Russia. We will continue to coordinate closely with relevant stakeholders and other international organizations, including the European Union. Transatlantic coordination remains crucial for an effective response to the current crisis.

We call on all states, including the People’s Republic of China (PRC), to uphold the international order including the principles of sovereignty and territorial integrity, as enshrined in the UN Charter, to abstain from supporting Russia’s war effort in any way, and to refrain from any action that helps Russia circumvent sanctions. We are concerned by recent public comments by PRC officials and call on China to cease amplifying the Kremlin’s false narratives, in particular on the war and on NATO, and to promote a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We remain committed to the foundational principles underpinning European and global security, including that each nation has the right to choose its own security arrangements free from outside interference. We reaffirm our commitment to NATO’s Open Door Policy under Article 10 of the Washington Treaty.

We are providing tailored support to partners affected by Russian threats and interference and will step up our assistance to help them resist Russian malign influence and strengthen their resilience, based on our partners’ requests and our long-standing partnership programmes. In April, Foreign Ministers will consider concrete proposals for enhancing our support to these partners.

We will continue to take all necessary steps to protect and defend the security of our Allied populations and every inch of Allied territory. Our commitment to Article 5 of the Washington Treaty is iron-clad.

In response to Russia’s actions, we have activated NATO’s defence plans, deployed elements of the NATO Response Force, and placed 40,000 troops on our eastern flank, along with significant air and naval assets, under direct NATO command supported by Allies’ national deployments. We are also establishing four additional multinational battlegroups in Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, and Slovakia. We are taking all measures and decisions to ensure the security and defence of all Allies across all domains and with a 360-degree approach. Our measures remain preventive, proportionate, and non-escalatory. We will now accelerate NATO’s transformation for a more dangerous strategic reality, including through the adoption of the next Strategic Concept in Madrid. In light of the gravest threat to Euro-Atlantic security in decades, we will also significantly strengthen our longer term deterrence and defence posture and will further develop the full range of ready forces and capabilities necessary to maintain credible deterrence and defence. These steps will be supported by enhanced exercises with an increased focus on collective defence and interoperability.

We are increasing the resilience of our societies and our infrastructure to counter Russia’s malign influence. We are enhancing our cyber capabilities and defences, providing support to each other in the event of cyber-attacks. We are ready to impose costs on those who harm us in cyberspace, and are increasing information exchange and situational awareness, enhancing civil preparedness, and strengthening our ability to respond to disinformation. We will also enhance our preparedness and readiness for chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear threats. We will take further decisions when we meet in Madrid.

The steps we are taking to ensure the security of our Alliance and of the Euro-Atlantic area will require adequate resourcing. Allies are substantially increasing their defence expenditures. Today, we have decided to accelerate our efforts to fulfil our commitment to the Defence Investment Pledge in its entirety. In line with our commitment in Article 3 of the Washington Treaty, we will further strengthen our individual and collective capacity to resist all forms of attack. At our meeting in Madrid, we will submit additional plans on how to meet the Pledge.

Russia’s unprovoked war against Ukraine represents a fundamental challenge to the values and norms that have brought security and prosperity to all on the European continent. President Putin’s choice to attack Ukraine is a strategic mistake, with grave consequences also for Russia and the Russian people. We remain united and resolute in our determination to oppose Russia’s aggression, aid the government and the people of Ukraine, and defend the security of all Allies.

<h1 property="name headline" id="wb-cont">Government of Canada announces loan of up to $120 million to support Ukraine’s economic resilience and development</h1>
From: Global Affairs Canada

<h2>News release</h2>

Canada stands resolute in its support of Ukraine’s sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence.

January 21, 2022 – Ottawa, Ontario – Global Affairs Canada
Canada stands resolute in its support of Ukraine’s sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence.
Today, the Honourable Harjit S. Sajjan, Minister of International Development and Minister responsible for the Pacific Economic Development Agency of Canada, and the Honourable Mélanie Joly, Minister of Foreign Affairs, announced that Canada has offered to provide a loan of up to $120 million to the Government of Ukraine to support the country’s economic resilience and governance reforms.
In addition, Canada has also offered to provide a technical assistance grant of up to $6 million to support the implementation of the loan. Canadian and Ukrainian officials are already meeting to discuss the potential terms of the loan and a timeline for its implementation.
Today’s commitment shows that Canada will continue to support Ukraine and its people. This proposed support will help reinforce Ukraine’s economy amid Russia’s aggressive efforts to destabilize Ukraine’s economic system. These aggressive efforts continue to jeopardize peace and security in Europe. Alongside its allies, Canada calls on Russia to de-escalate and engage in meaningful dialogue.

<h2>Quotes</h2>

<blockquote data-emptytext="Blockquote">
“Ukrainians can always count on Canada to be there for them when needed. By working together, we can strengthen the economy and help advance governance reforms. I authorized this proposed loan to support Ukraine’s ability to respond to its population’s needs amid Russia’s aggressive actions. This is just one step in helping build a secure future for Ukrainians, and I will continue to look at ways to support Ukraine.”
- Harjit S. Sajjan, Minister of International Development and Minister responsible for the Pacific Economic Development Agency of Canada
</blockquote>

<blockquote data-emptytext="Blockquote">
“Over the past days, I have witnessed the strength of the people of Ukraine in the face of challenges posed by Russia’s destabilizing and aggressive actions. The situation in Ukraine is complex, and we are prepared to provide support for the country’s economic resiliency. Canada will continue to work closely with our partners to support a strong and independent Ukraine.”
- Mélanie Joly, Minister of Foreign Affairs
</blockquote>

<h2>Quick facts</h2>

In 2014 and 2015, Canada provided a loan of $400 million ($200 million per year) to the then-new Government of Ukraine to support its economic recovery and development objectives. This loan was fully repaid with interest, on schedule, in 2020.

The loan announced today would be provided under the Sovereign Loans Program, which was announced in Budget 2018.

Providing sovereign loans to eligible countries improves their ability to make important investments in poverty reduction and peace and security.

Since Russia’s illegal annexation of Crimea in 2014, Canada has imposed sanctions on more than 440 individuals and entities, many in coordination with allies.
